Footsteps . . .

In the beginning we gather all we know, have known, and take a step. A step into the merry-go-round—Around, by, through, and then out. Each step passed hesitantly—perhaps different for all and each.

The second is better—more is known now, more is enjoyable.

The third—the last—filled with waiting and hope. The steps will continue upwards.

Three years gone—three steps taken.

Best wishes
and lots of luck
next year.
J. Wyatt.

Dedicated to Mr. John Wyatt

Academics

Principal: Miss May Marshbanks

Principals Inject A Note of Discipline

Assistant Principal: Mr. Charles A. McDougle

Our principal, Miss May Marshbanks, has watched and influenced the development of CHHS in its new identity. She battles the complex problem of co-ordinating the academic courses with the extra-curricular activities of the school.

Mr. C. A. McDougle, assistant principal, directs the school's daily mechanics and oversees the disciplinary problems.

Working together, Miss Marshbanks and Mr. McDougle have made available to the increasing student body the advantage of a well-balanced school life.

New Administration And School Bond Are Shot-in-the-Arm

The Chapel Hill Public School System's new chief administrator, Dr. Wilmer Cody, has tackled the system's problems with insight, understanding, and a willingness to listen to new ideas. A stranger to the area, Dr. Cody has immediately adapted himself and has given unity to the school system.

With the financial aid of the new School Bond, the School Board and Dr. Cody have been able to finalize plans for advancing students' opportunities in our public school system.

Superintendent: Dr. Wilmer S. Cody

Office's Organization Surprises Students

Assistance is our most important service.

For the smooth running of the school's mechanics, we depend upon our reliable secretary, Mrs. Judith C. Moore. The secretary and her office assistants face each day a barrage of phone calls, letters, errands, excuses, attendance cards, and other administrative details.

Mrs. Moore poses during rare office quiet.

Mrs. Woodall checks on a student's absence a forged signature?

French chefs pause before dabbling in their "art".

Invisible Workers Lauded For Valuable Services

Janitors Big Thomas Morrow, Minniebelle Purefoy, and Little Thomas Pendergraft ham it up for the camera.

Every day the school's various helpers assemble to fight the plague of cigarette-butt-filled bathrooms, unreturned lunch trays, and overcrowded bus loads. Although sometimes criticized by students, our janitorial help, cafeteria staff, and bus drivers provide the school with unacclaimed daily services.

Smith-trained chauffeurs delight in driving the "orange flash".

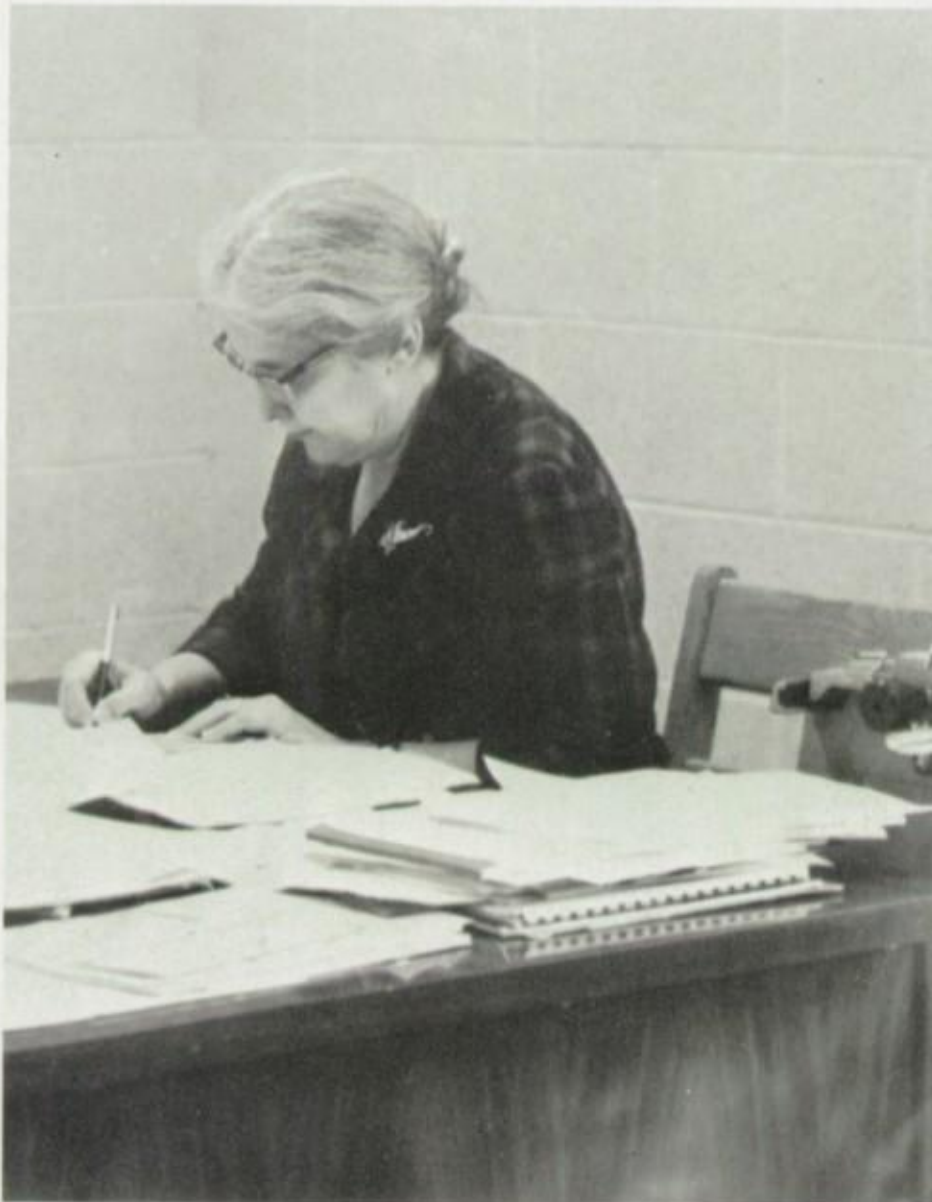

Students Challenged By Counselors To Aim Higher

The Guidance Department provides "personal, educational, and vocational counseling." From personal contact with the students, the guidance counselors seek "to enable each student to fulfill his promise as an individual", and to become a responsible citizen.

Guidance Department: Mrs. Mary F. McSwain, Mrs. Vivian A. Edmonds.

"And I thought Calvander Country College was a co-ed school..."

Frustrated Mrs. Coffee exclaims, "Pick a folder ...any folder! !!"

Initiation into the "Model Library Society": The sophomore library course.

School Revolves Around Model Library

Library Staff: Miss Elizabeth Kenney, Mrs. Helen Peacock, Mrs. Elizabeth Hufschmidt.

The model library at CHHS offers students the opportunity to build upon their foundation acquired from their individual courses. With modern equipment, such as microfilm copies of periodicals, students are able to prepare thoroughly researched reports, essays, and term papers.

Our conscientious librarian, Mrs. Helen Peacock, makes the library available for every student by organizing the numerous details of running the library.

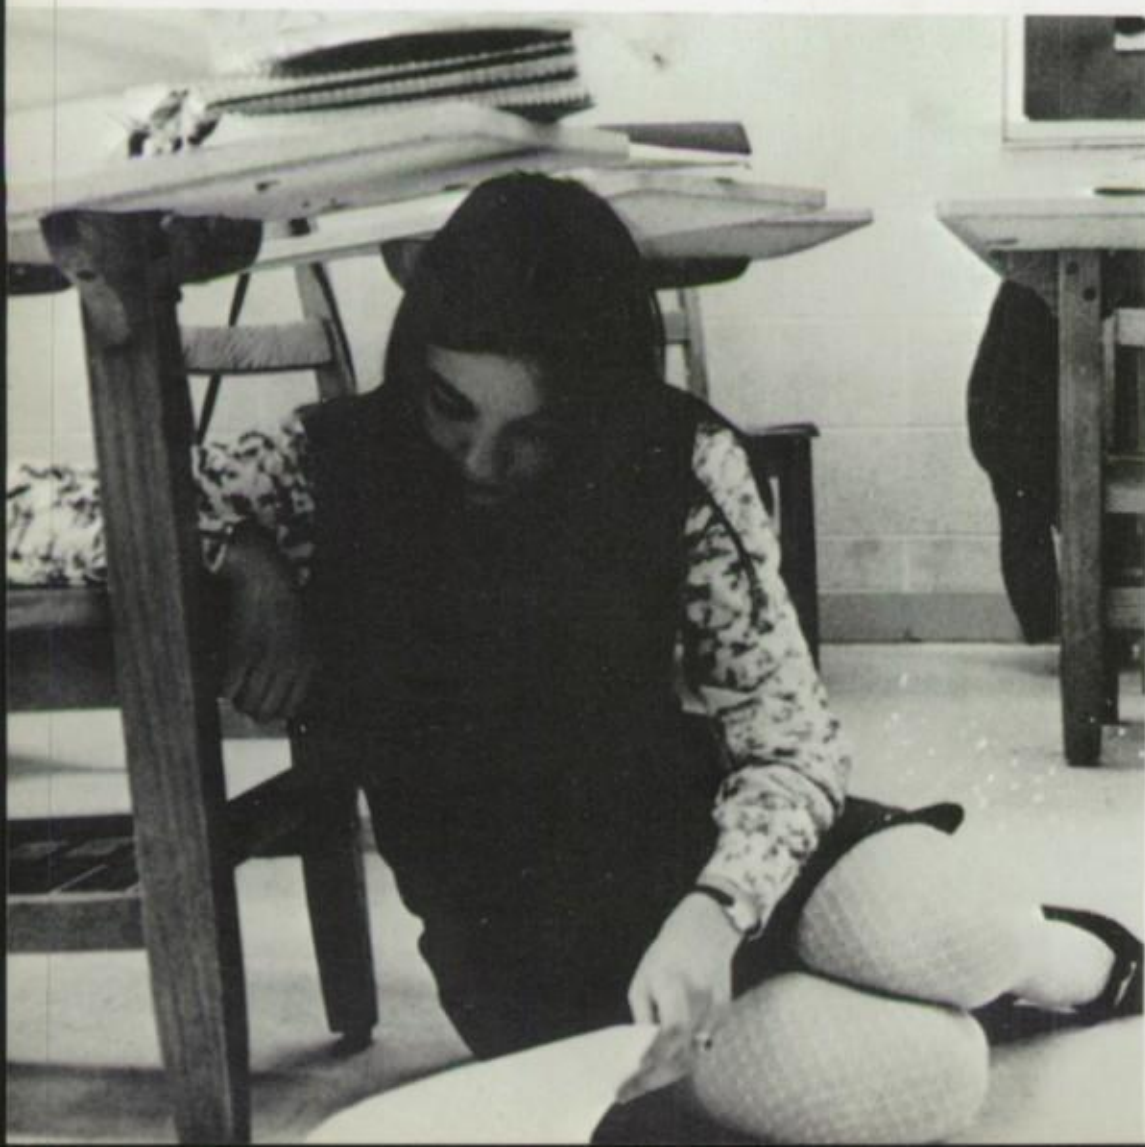

Between rustling papers and careful whispers, the students invade the excellent book collection to explore the facets of knowledge. Our library is not only useful but also helps to create a greater self-awareness.

English Department: Seated: Mrs. Virginia H. Mills, Miss Jessie Belle Lewis, Mrs. Suzanne Richter, Mrs. Katherine R. Senn; Standing: Mrs. Linda Barnard, Mrs. Barbara B. Lorie, Mrs. Dawn A. Bryan.

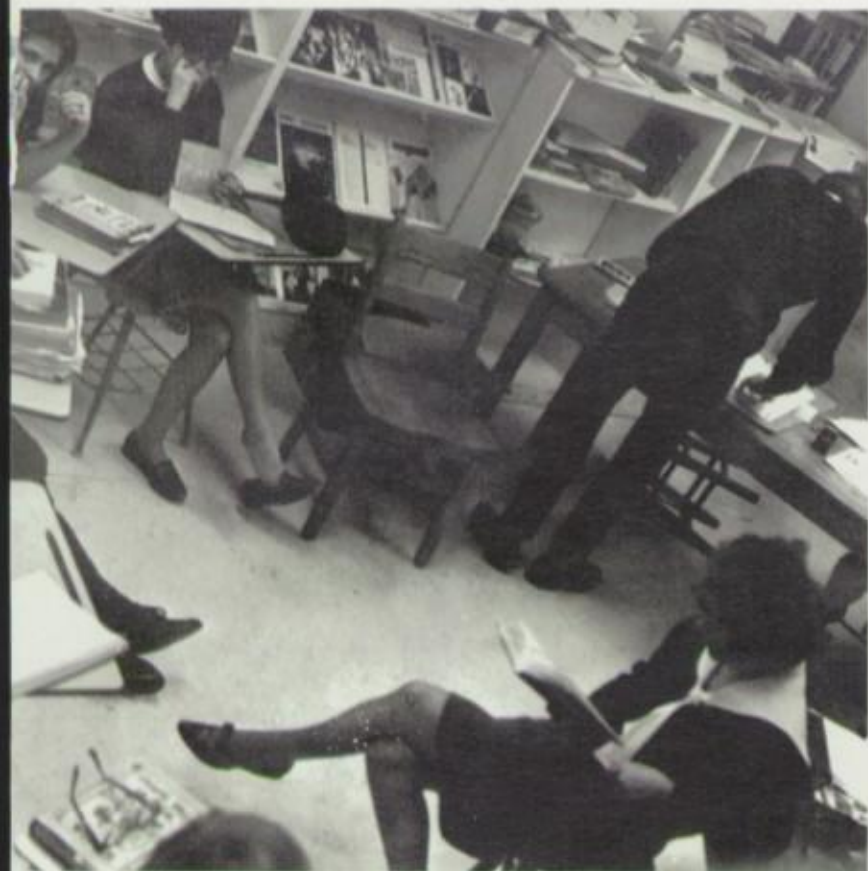

English and Literature Create Backbones For Individual Development

Fire drills are the best times to cram for English tests.

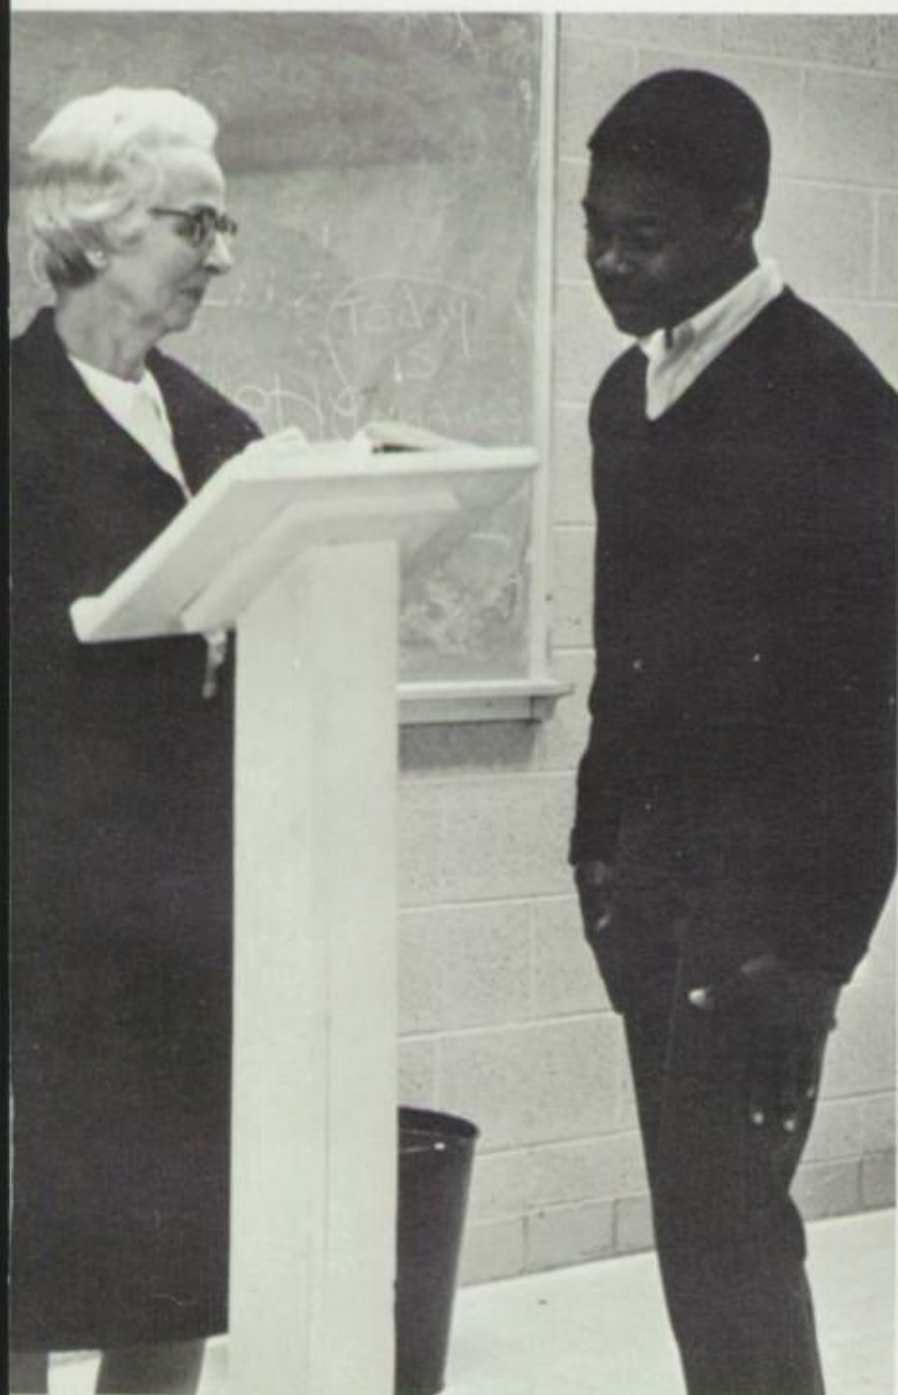

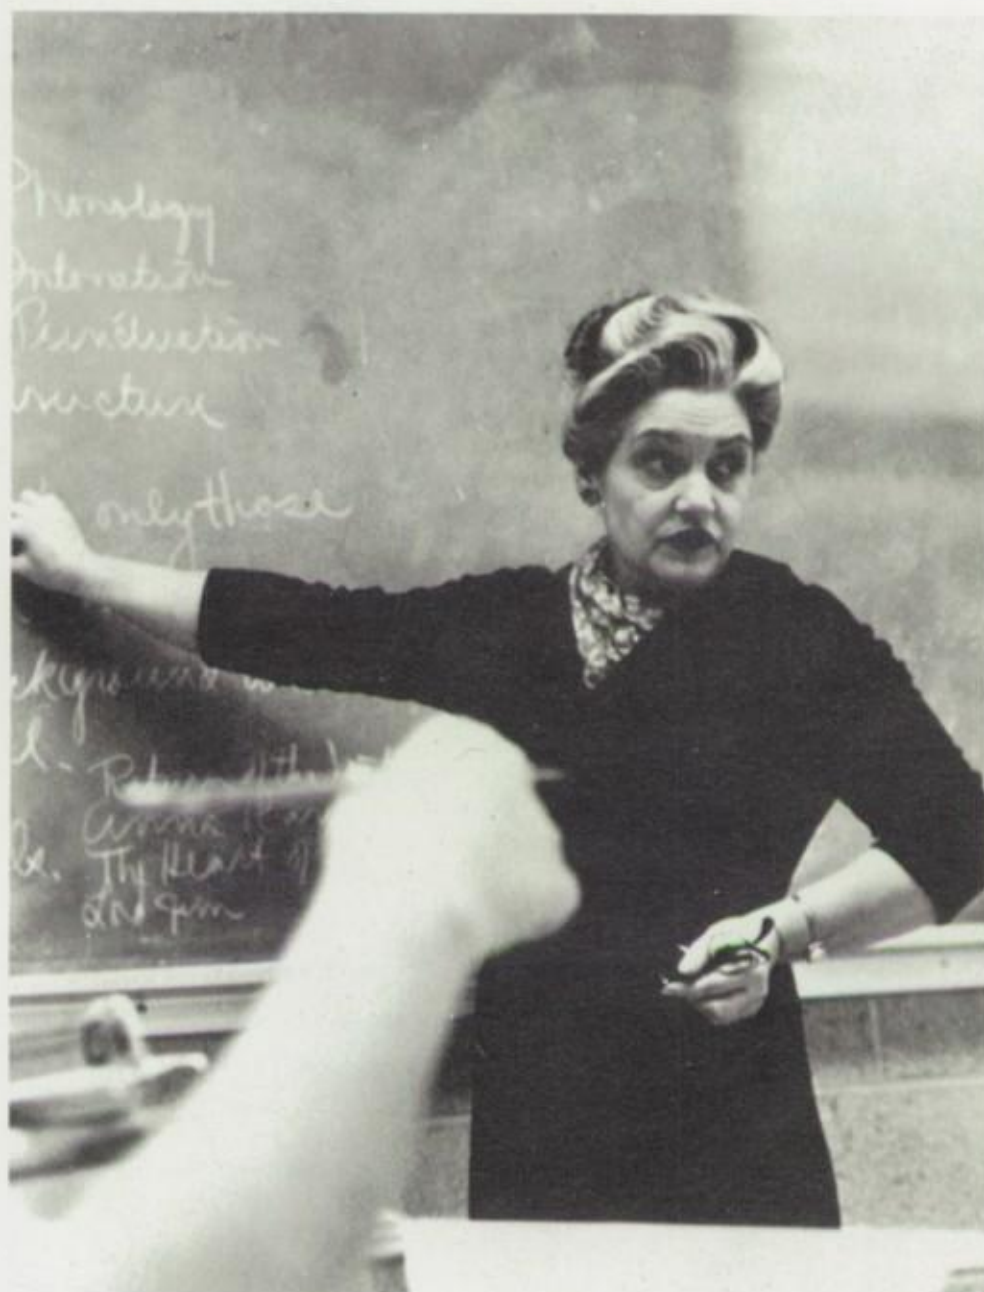

To provide the basis of the high school curriculum, four years of English are required. A student's academic success revolves around his ability to write cohesively and read with understanding and insight. He achieves these abilities by studying the construction of the English language and the dissection of literary works.

Besides the obvious practical usage, English allows us to be creative and to explore new ideas.

"But Pete, you can't have your cake and eat it too. . ."

"Do you mean to say that you do not understand why $f(x(g(h)))=2698?$ "

The abstract concepts of math require the student to analytically think and understand. Although students question its necessity, the teachers strive to "develop an appreciation of math." This in turn enables the "student to see the importance of math in other fields of endeavor."

Math Guides Creative Thinkers Toward A Logical Path

Math Department: Mrs. Betty L. Simpson, Mrs. Carolyn A. Horn, Mr. T. J. Cartier, Mr. James E. Gray, Mrs. Emma K. Sommerfeld.

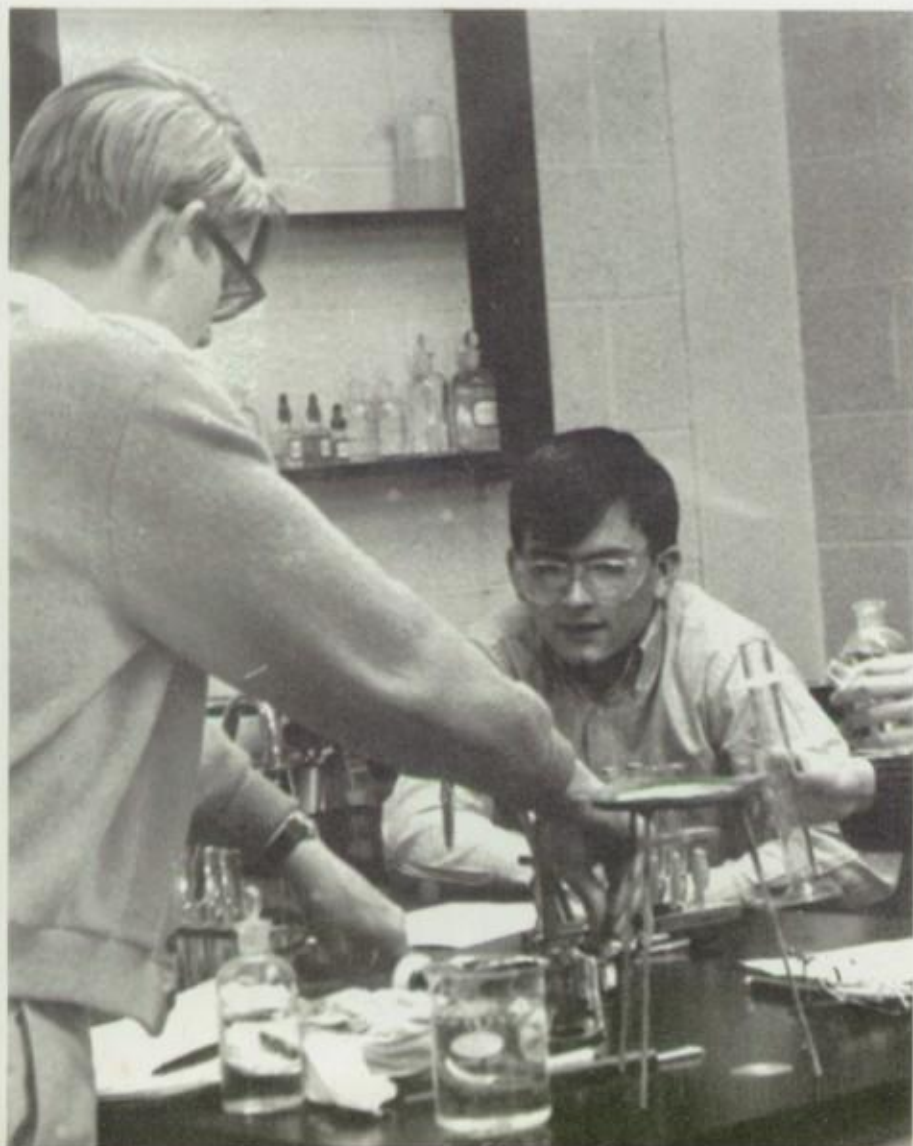

Science Department: Mr. William M. Futrell, Mrs. Mary Lou Wheeler, Mr. John C. Wyatt, Mrs. Donna Rich, Mr. Gary G. Keith.

Students Discover Nature's Laws By Trial and Error

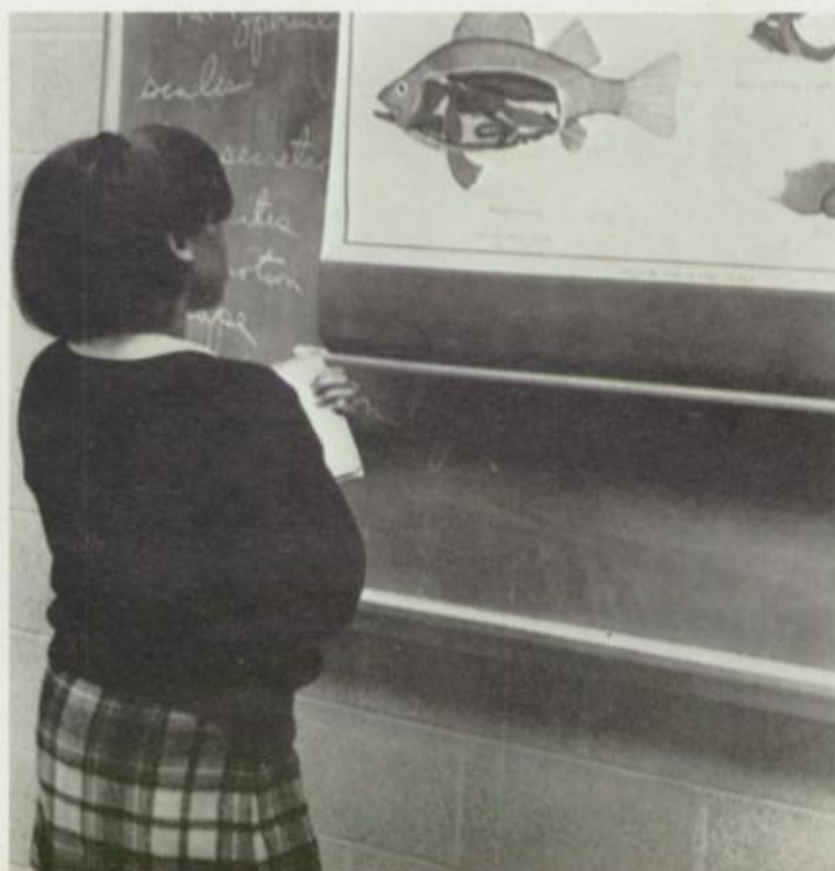

Mike Fields waits hopefully for an "exciting" explosion.

A student's laboratory work begins one of the most important phases of science—seeing theory in practice. By observing an idea at work, the student can understand and apply his knowledge in everyday life.

From science, students gain "the background for making decisions that may very well effect evolution as well as our environment."

History Classes

To learn from the mistakes of others is an important concept in education. History, being based on this idea, teaches the student to measure the future by the rules of the past. The teachers at our high school claim that they are "making history" by producing students who have a broadly related concept of history.

Apply Past to Today

Leaning precariously on her lectern, Miss Wilkin exclaims, "Tippecanoe and Tyler too!"

Language Department: Miss Eloise Baynes, Mrs. Alice Page Battle, Mrs. Erin Oliver, Miss Elizabeth Raney, Mrs. June Basile.

Student Lost: French test again.

Communication. . The

"Language carries, reflects and molds the thoughts and ideas of a people."

By learning another language, we are able to expand our ability to communicate in other ways of life.

No matter what language we learn, it enables us to contend more ably with the world around us.

Genius Transformed into Artistic Expression

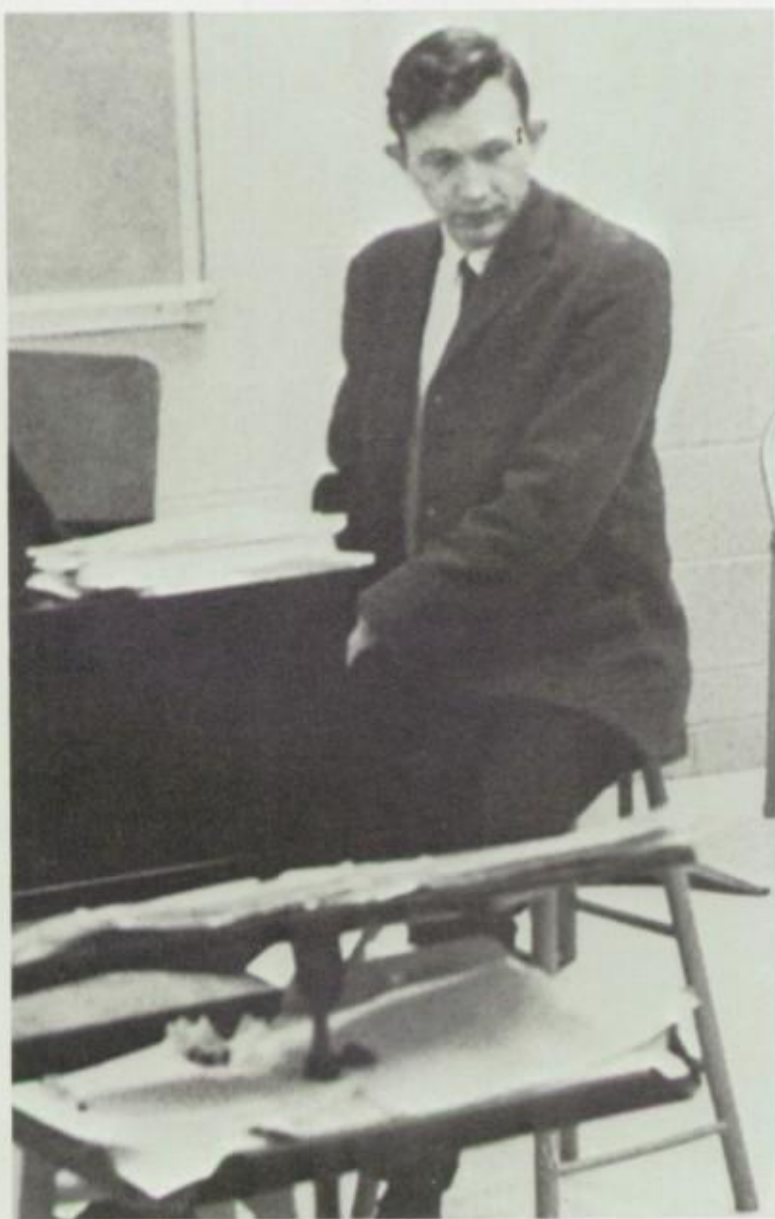

Art utilizes the student's creative ability, imagination, and initiative to develop its subject. The Art Department teaches the student "the appreciation of art in daily living and provides an outlet for creative expression."

Strains of agony reverberate from "crashing" percussion section of the Band.

Conglomeration of Sounds Form Harmony

"I know Steve Foster really turns you on Wally, but get up off the floor. . ."

Although at first irritating to the ear, the soaring voices and crashing notes emerge from the music room as one harmonious melody. Gifted and diligent musicians work under the direction of Mr. Hugh Preble to produce a highly commendable Band and Chorus.

Music director Mr. Hugh Preble introduces the chorus at the Christmas concert.

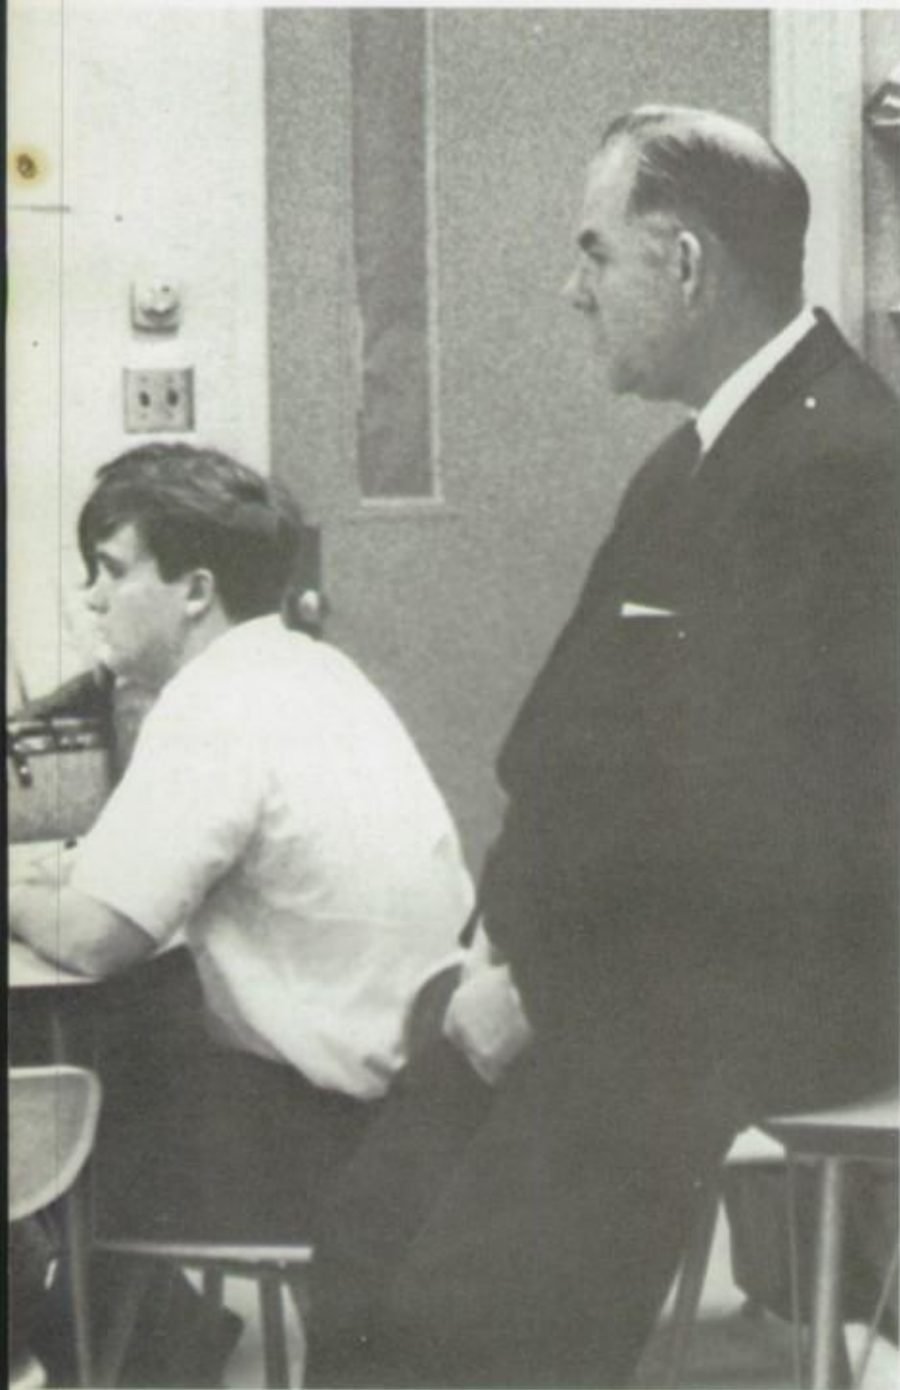

"No, I don't wear a crash helmet."

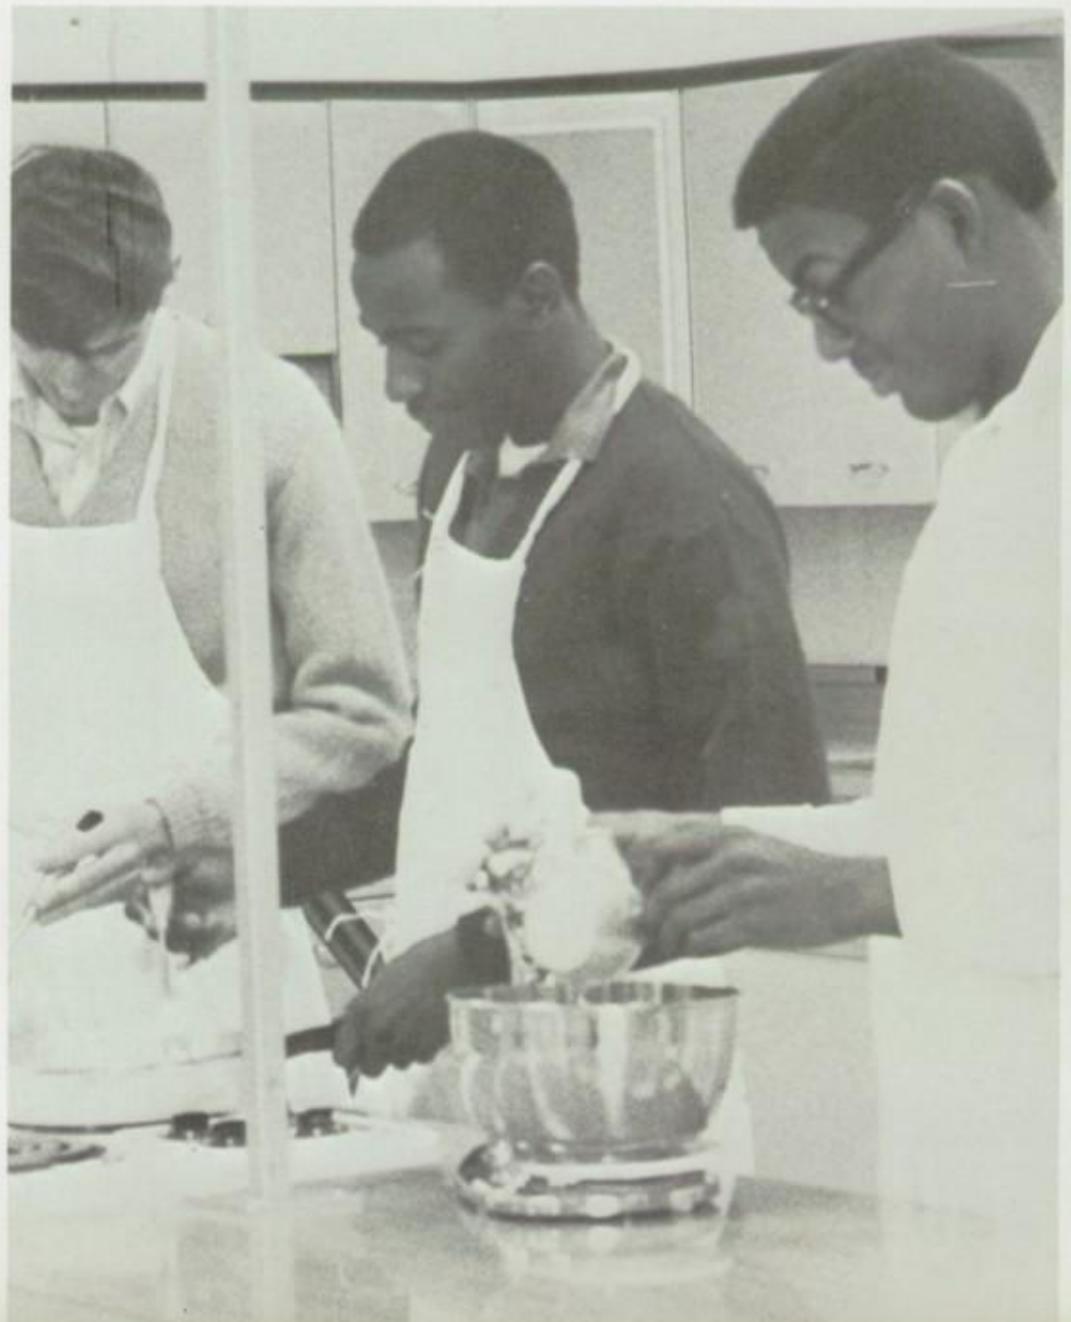

"I told you the engine's in the back. . ."

Vocational Experience

Applied to the "Big World"

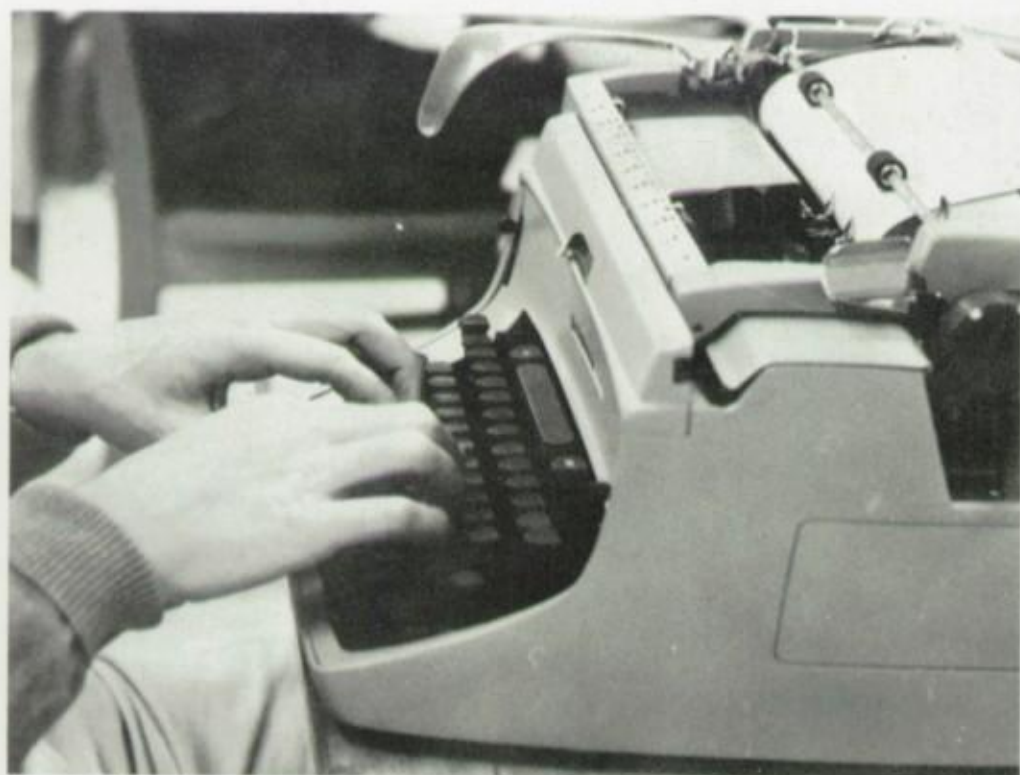

"A twenty pound pick-axe would be marvelous for Mother's Day!"

The vocational program is aimed toward teaching students how to rely on themselves, whether through job training, homemaking, or mechanical knowledge. The vocational student becomes confident in his ability to make a place for himself in the world by "combining part-time work experience with practical in-school instruction."

Tomorrow's Business Giants Ripen At CHHS

By providing familiarity with common techniques and insight into skills needed for success in jobs after high school, the Business Department at CHHS helps the students to prepare for an occupation.

Although the teachers provide the work, each student must do the work himself, and this supplies an atmosphere of independence.

Modern Techniques Stimulate Special Education Students

Since students work at different paces, Special Education gives the student the opportunity to learn at a comfortable pace and yet challenge him to reach his potential.

Modern techniques in education are used to encourage each individual in his quest for knowledge.

"What we have here is a failure to communicate."

Special Education Department: Mrs. Alice Jackson, Mr. Donald E. Taylor.

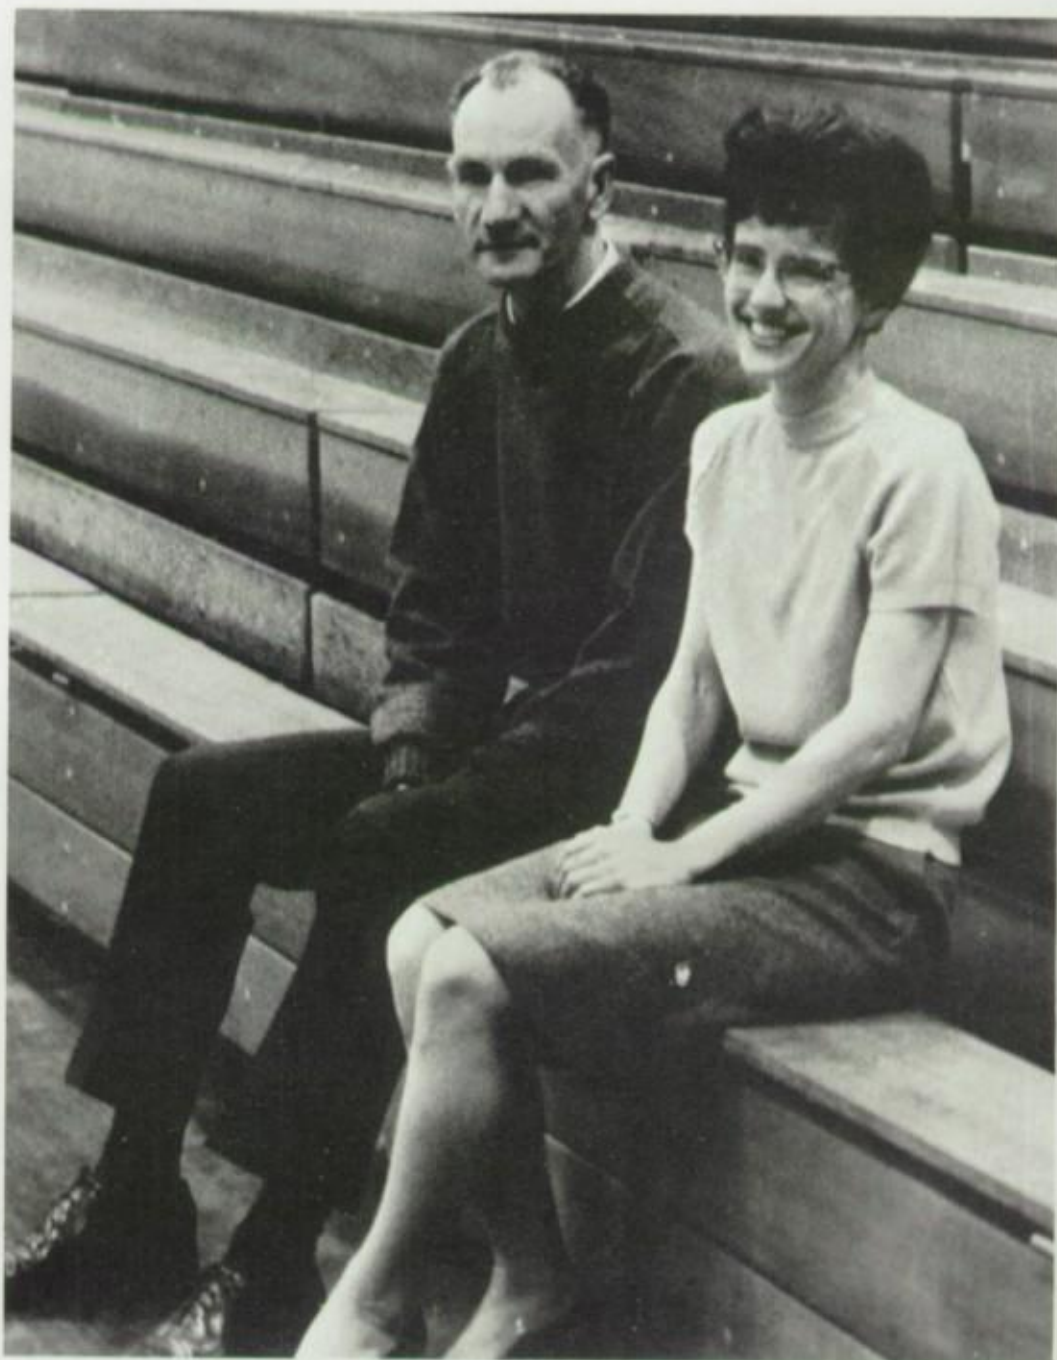

Physical Education Rounds Out A Broad Curriculum

Education of the body as well as the mind is important. In Physical Education, a student learns skills which develop his physical fitness. Students are urged to become interested "in activities that will carry over into their adult lives and enable them to engage in physical activities the rest of their lives." Physical Education rounds out the diverse learning a student receives at Chapel Hill Senior High School.

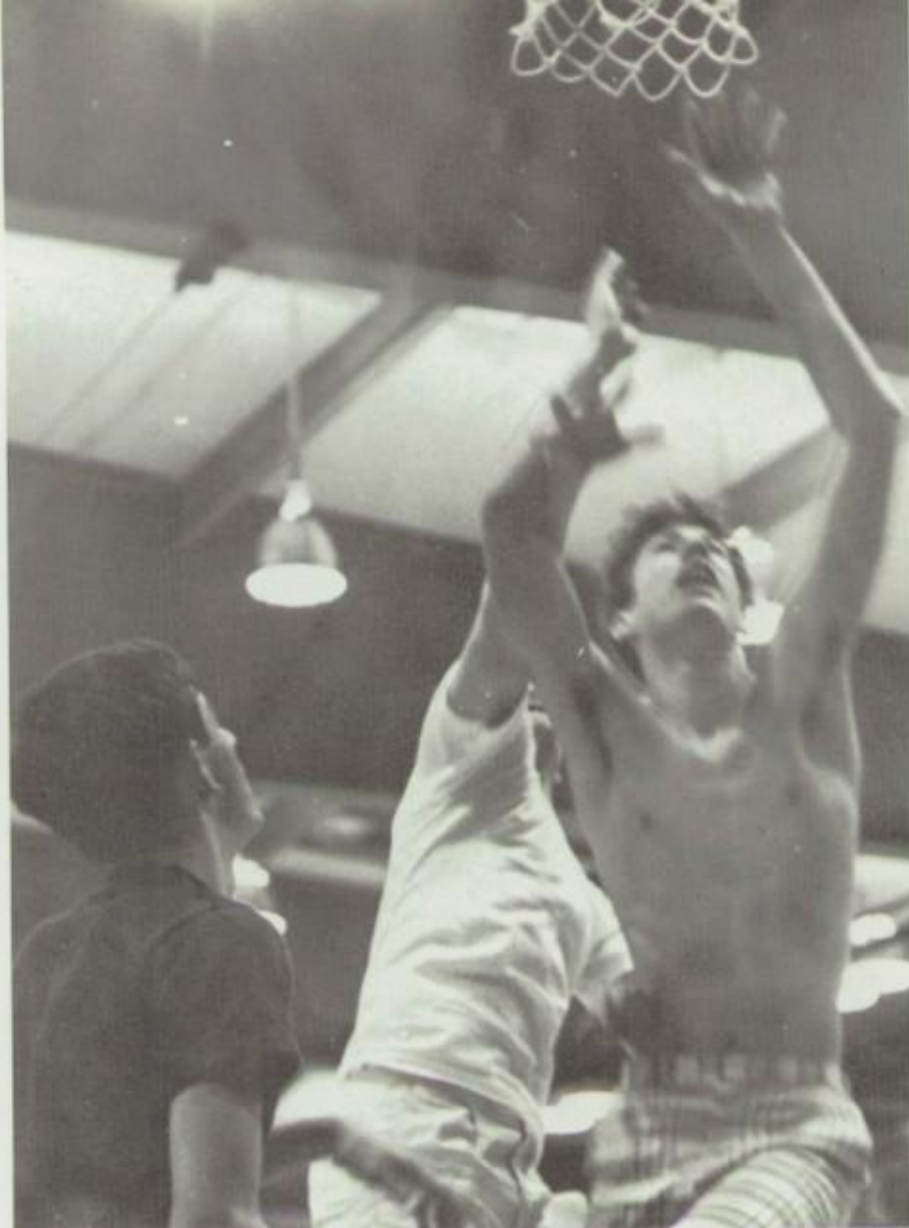

"Help, I need somebody!"

Physical Education Department: Mr. Robert Culton, Mrs. Emilie deLuca.

Activities

SCA OFFICERS: Margaret Warden, vice-pres.; Carol Yaggy, pres.; Daphne Deshaies, sec.; Betsy Kip, treas.; Mrs. Wheeler, adv.

COMMITTEE HEADS: Kip, Finance; Burnett, Club; Brashear, Assembly; Via, Publicity; Warden, Constitution; Pollitt, House and Grounds; Wheeler, Social.

Tradition was broken this year when the SCA-sponsored Homecoming Dance showed a profit instead of a loss. September brought Sophomore Orientation and a Get-Acquainted Dance to lessen the pain of beginning school again. The age-old Thanksgiving Project, collecting canned foods for the needy, and the Christmas adoption of Vietnamese Phuong were last-minute successes. The CHHS handbook, the Key, and the student directory, the Dial, were again published this year by the SCA. The Council continued the Student of the Month awards along with keeping the School Store in operation.

That successful projects should arise from the chaotic Council meetings may seem a miracle. Robert's Rules of Order took quite a beating amid the heated debate about the Interclub Council, smoking privileges, and a Constitutional Convention. Alas, the SCA has pulled through another year, dragging its 950-member student body behind it.

Honor Societies

Leadership and high scholastic achievement are recognized in CHHS by the National Honor Society. Each spring, the new members are tapped during a candlelight ceremony. The society sponsored a College Day in November, when representatives from many universities spoke during a morning assembly and an evening seminar. The program was aimed at helping prospective graduates decide about their future education.

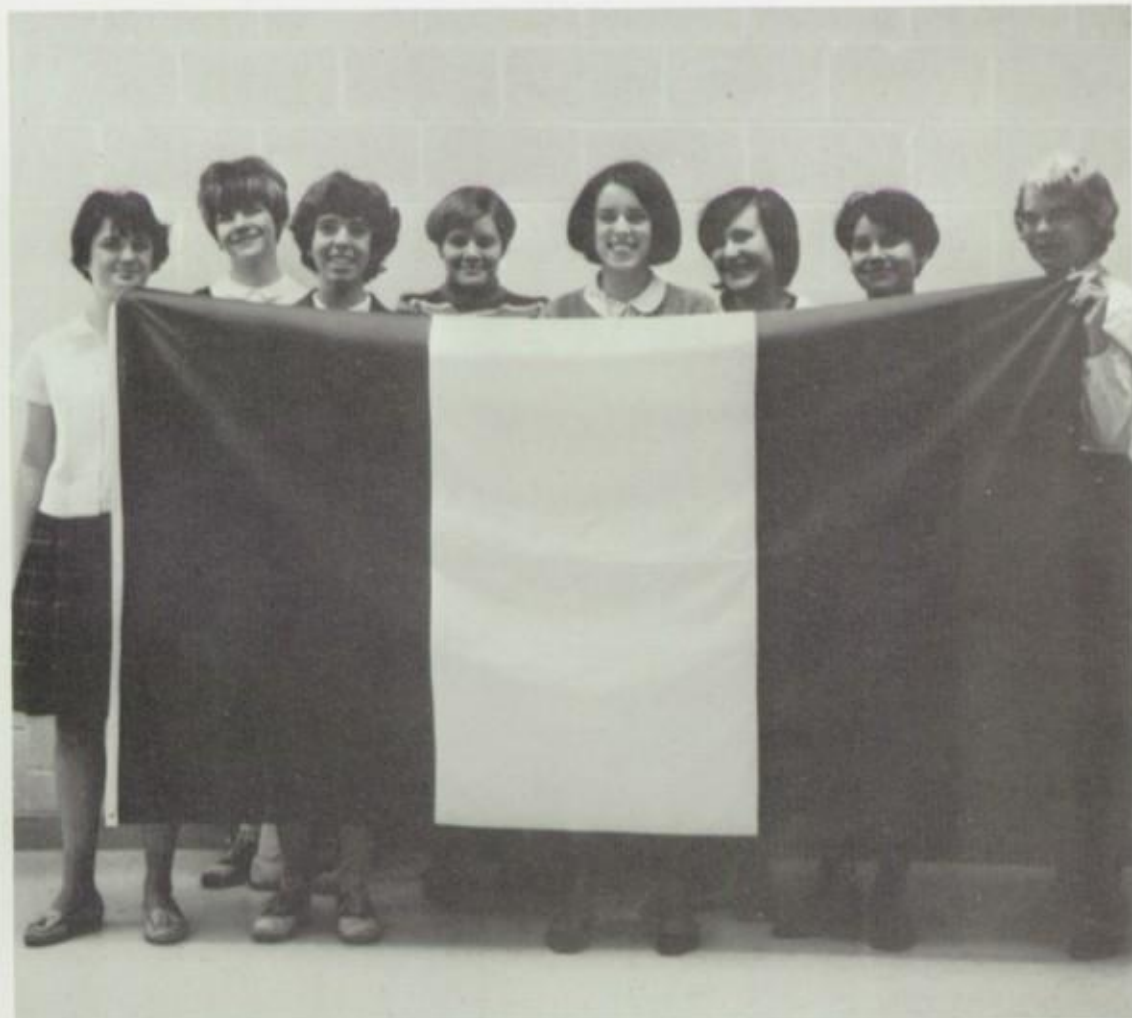

A senior NHS member prepares to honor another outstanding student in the candlelight tapping ceremony.

Guided by Mademoiselle Elizabeth Raney and Señora June Basile, the language Honor Societies explored the cultures of France and Spain. Since the purpose of these organizations is to honor students, members must maintain an A or B average. The members purchased new books for the library and sponsored a language week to acquaint other students with foreign life.

SPANISH HONOR SOCIETY: Row 1: McKay, sec-treas.; Marks; McKnight, pres. Row 2: Wagner, vice-pres.; Odum; J. Basile, adv.; G. Basile. Row 3: Vian; Pena; Smith. Absent: C. Collins, C. McGaughey.

Debators Clash Over Personal Privacy Loss From Crime Inquiries

"The manner of speaking is as important as the matter" was the basic theme guiding this year's Debating Club. The club strove not only to discuss current issues intelligently, but also to employ good debating techniques.

Throughout the year the team members debated among themselves and heard outside speakers. Spring brought inter-scholastic round-robin debates, as the team discussed whether or not Congress should establish uniform regulations to control investigation procedures. Anne Creech and John Navin defended the affirmative side, while Richard Abbott and John Massoglia argued the negative viewpoint.

Vietnam and Labor Union Issues Headline Club Controversies

Mr. Calhoon discusses "labor pains."

"President Johnson is an egotistical idiot!" "Down with labor unions!" These are some of the varied and numerous opinions of the Current Events Club members as expressed in a poll taken at the beginning of the year. To reinforce these opinions with fact, the club sponsored several speakers including Dr. G.E. Nicholson, Mr. E.M. Adams who discussed labor unions and Vietnam.

"Enough of this hilarity."

"Obviously you don't value your life."

As one of the most important service clubs in the school, the Library Club assists Mrs. Peacock in all facets of her work. In only its second year of existence, the library was chosen as a model for the state. Members worked diligently, giving up study halls and nights to shelve books.

This year the club hosted the District Convention, where four of the six district offices were won by CHHS students: David Taylor, Pres.; Bruce Mann, V.P.; Lucy Wagner, Treas.; and Nora Gaskin, Reporter. The program included lectures, a dinner, and an afternoon dance.

Inquisitive Biologists Probe Life:

"You're just like Peggy and David when they were your age."

A plywood apartment house inhabited by sixty-six mice, and a large glass apparatus with an oil bath, condenser, and induction coil attached are the settings for two Biology Club experiments—those of overpopulation and amino acid synthesis. The organization supplements the sophomore biology courses and encourages individual experimentation. Interesting programs of topics from ESP to population ecology caused the group's membership to double in the past two years.

Budding Physicists Beam in Laser Project

The Bischoff-Bierck team's effort in building a laser spotlighted the Physical Science Club's activities this year.

Mr. Ross Scroggs, speaking on light and its properties, and Mr. John Wyatt discussing static electricity, were the club's featured lecturers.

"Looks like a wheel, rolls like a wheel. . .?"

Lack of available speakers unbalanced the Physical Science Club.

Geometric Puzzles Checkmate Club

Expressions of puzzled concentration on the faces of Math Club members denote "geniuses at work" over chess problems and intricate puzzles. Formed last year, the Math Club has become one of the most progressive clubs in the school. Speakers included Dr. Pettis, who lectured on advanced Algebra, and Mr. Danziger, who spoke on computers. The club's final project was the construction of a Moravian star from straws.

"Would you like to swing on a star, carry Mrs. Sommerfeld home in a jar. . .?"

Francophiles Dissect Foreign Culture

Exhibiting their French culinary talents, the French Club members held several bake sales to collect enough money to buy books for the school library. During club periods the programs included lectures and discussions of France, its people, and its customs. The members had an opportunity to practice the language informally and to understand the French culture. Several of the members plan trips abroad in order to utilize and improve their classroom education.

"Hey, 'De Gaulle' isn't in the dictionary!"

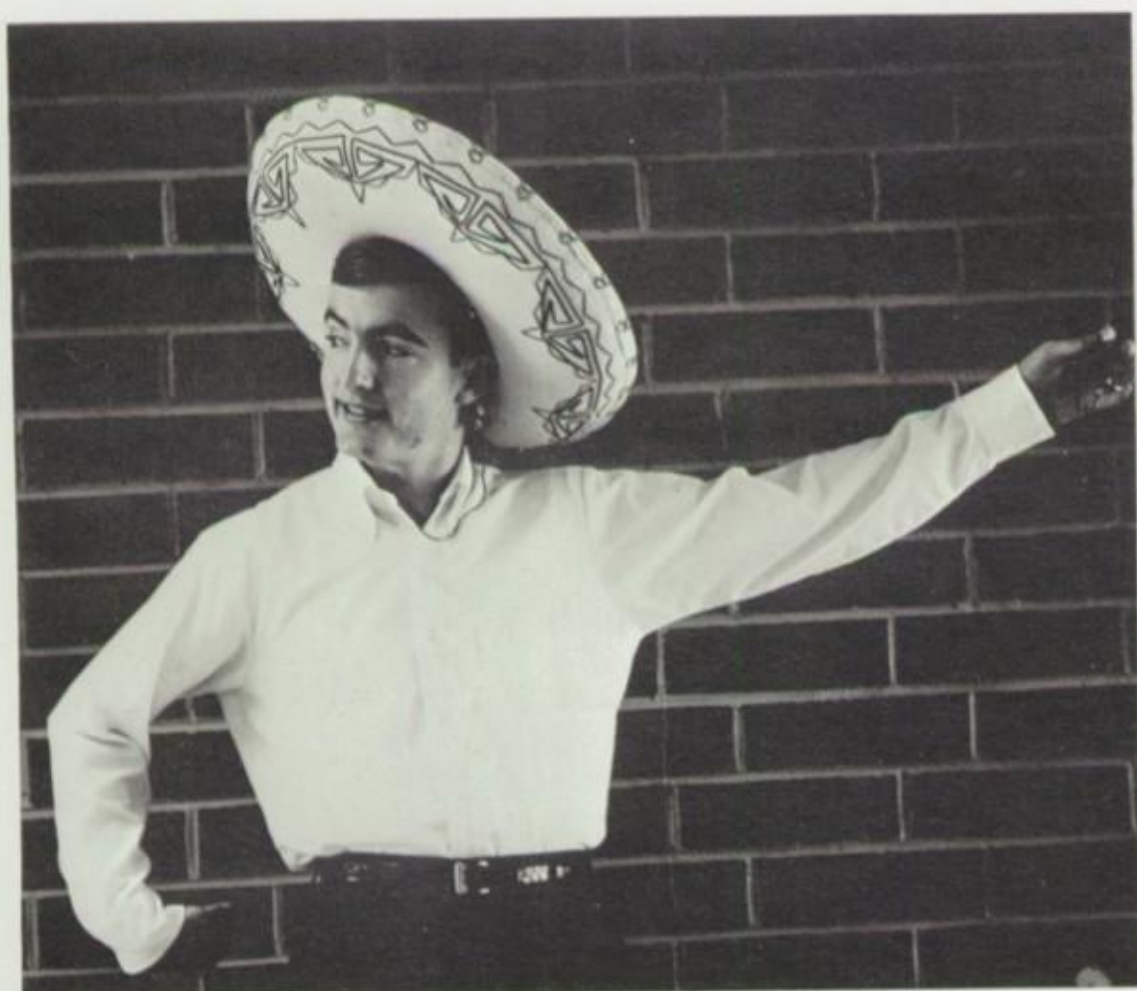

FRENCH CLUB: Murphy; Gaskin; Hardy; Gattis; Flinn; Mrs. Battle, adv.; Adams; Grantham; Voitie. Absent: Johnston.

Row 4: Slaughter; Chaffee; Williams; Tillman; Hogan; Oliver, adv.; Cotton; Mason. Absent: R. Sparrow; I. Boyce; M. Shause; D. Knight, treas.; R. Bierck; K. Barton.

Spanish Tongues Enlighten Attentive Yankees

South Americans Isabel Machado and Francisco Vian jabbered about their native countries during Spanish Club meetings to help members properly appreciate Spanish life. Other methods of aiding the students in their dissection of the country included Larry Wolslagel's slide-plus-oration show of Portugal and Spain.

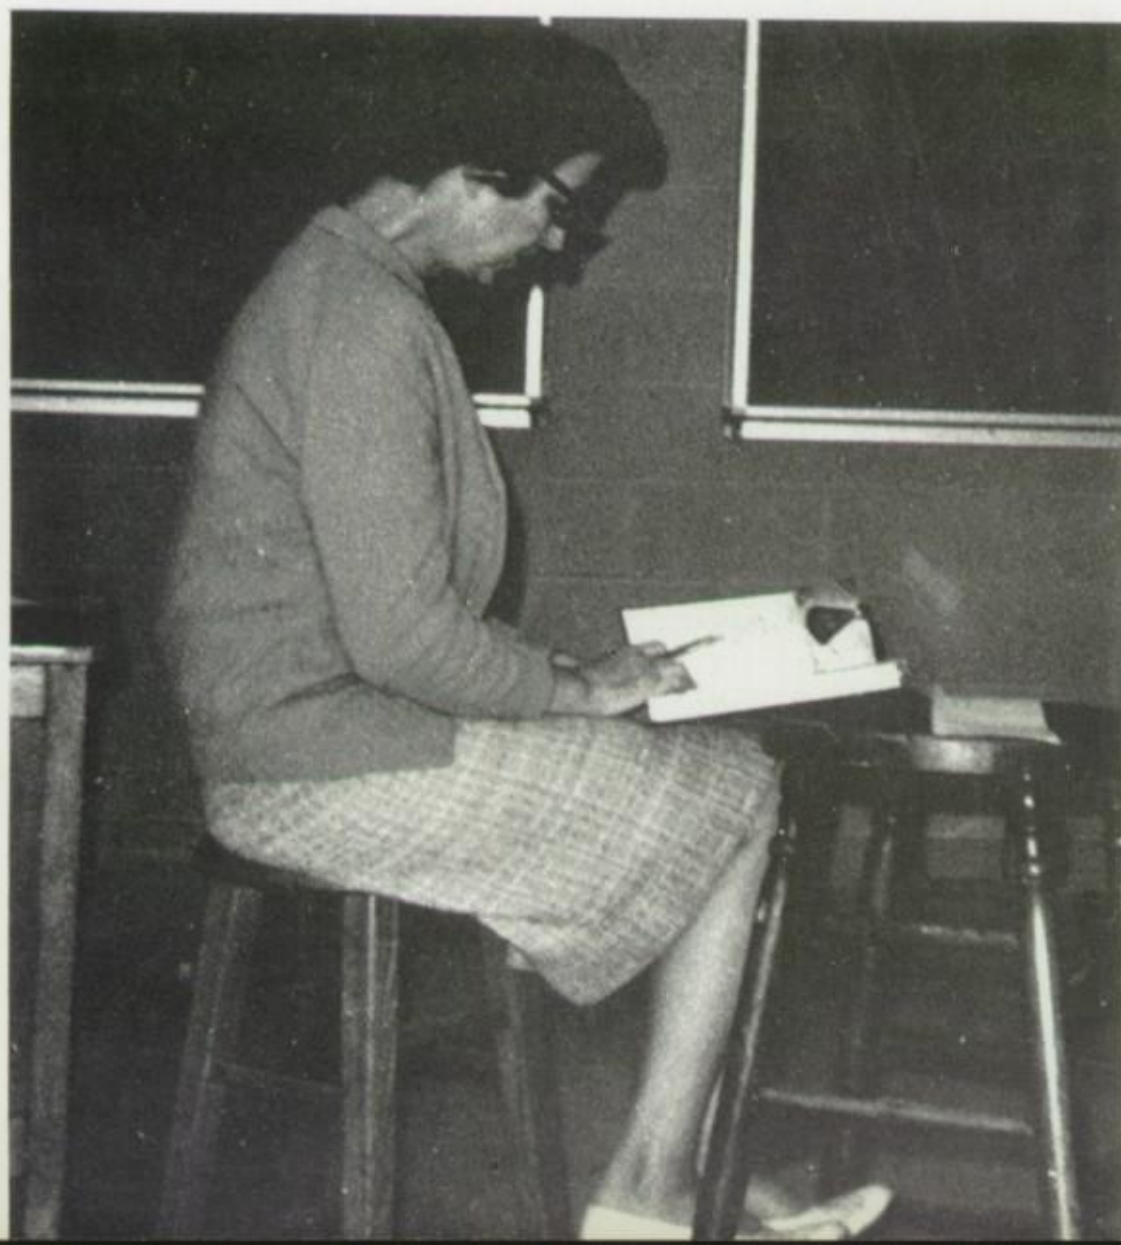

The American Don Juan personified: "Kiss me you fool."

Modern Latin Scholars Reconstruct Ancient Rome

Miss Baynes plays Hera to the Latin Club.

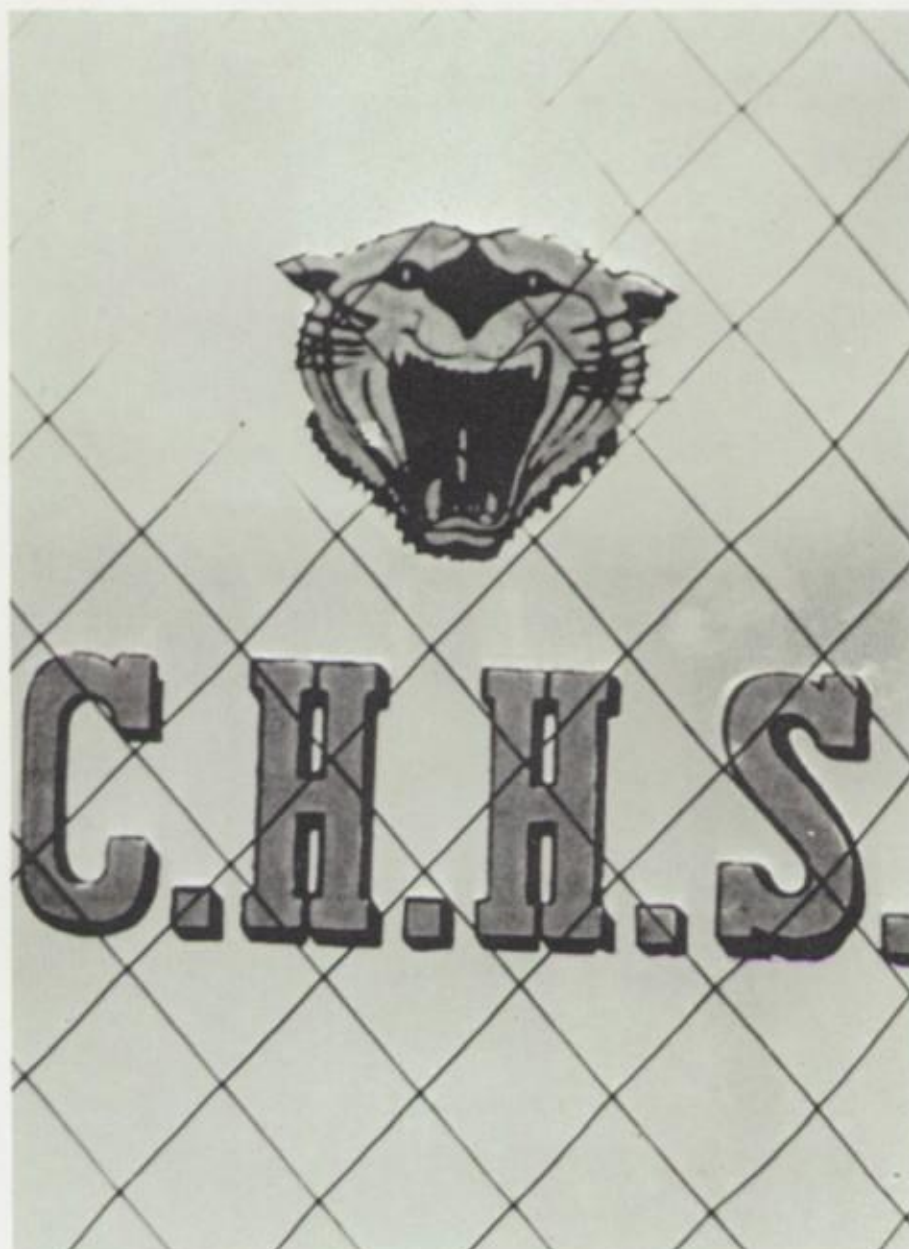

The Ides of March, Julius Caesar's birthday, Saturnalia, and other Roman holidays were observed this year as a part of the Latin Club's study of Roman culture.

Draped in togas, the Latin Club officially celebrated a Latin Week in January. Each day a new aspect of life was demonstrated with a Roman touch. A slave auction began the week followed by a Soni Silenti day when CHHS's female population tried to remain silent. Students participating in Roman games enlivened lunch period. A banquet for club members provided a grand finale for the week.

Monogram Club Strives To Obliterate CHHS Apathetic Spirit

Consisting of lettermen and Varsity Cheerleaders, the Monogram Club, CHHS's athletic elite, serves to give the school a boost in spirit. CHHS decals were sold to make money. An awards dinner was sponsored, during which outstanding sportsmen were recognized for their athletic achievement. Gifts to the janitors rounded up the year's work.

School spirit plastered on the wall.

Exchange Club Greet Student

Striving to interest students with customs from around the world, the American Field Service Club sponsored Foreign speakers and held an International Dinner in the spring. Chapel Hill played host to Susanna Rodriquez, the foreign exchange student from Córdoba, Argentine, the first half of the year, while also sponsoring Vicki Wyszynski's stay in Finland.

Homemakers Unveil Future Goals

Two basic themes, "Individuality Counts" and "Community Beauty is our Duty", directed the Future Homemakers of America Club's activities this year. Club members led seminars to improve relations within the family, school, and community. During FHA week, the members volunteered their services in nursing homes and in the hospital. Concluding the week was the State Convention at Raleigh.

"This new math is too much for my simple mind!"

Future Teachers Analyze Foreign School Systems

In connection with their study of foreign school systems, the Future Teachers Club sponsored speakers and seminars on European education. The members also provided a tutoring service for their fellow students to learn basic classroom technique.

Mr. Watson discusses the importance of teaching with the FTA.

Career Clubs Enrich Members'

The working segment of the CHHS student body is accommodated by the Distributive Education Club. Members began the year's activities by attending the District DE Convention. To improve employee-employer relationships, the students held a Bosses' Breakfast in November followed by a Bosses' Banquet in February. Over the Christmas holidays they presented a $50 check to the Baptist Children's Home in Chapel Hill. In the spring the club sent representatives to the DE State Convention in Raleigh.

"With a type type here, and a type type there, here a type, there a type, everywhere a type type."

Typewriters click busily during club period as students work to improve their business skills. In supplementing the vocational classes, the Commercial Club studies secretarial work, accounting, and salesmanship. Having mastered the operation of the mimeograph machine, the members went on to sponsor a Career Week in February. All CHSers were invited to hear speakers on different business opportunities.

VICA Diversifies, Incorporates Different Occupations: ICT, Mechanics, Drafting

The Vocational Industrial Club is unique in two ways: it is the only club which is compulsory by federal regulations, and it is actually three organizations in one—the Automotive Shop Club, the Industrial Cooperative Training Club, and the Technical Drafting Club. Full of Christmas spirit, the members played Santa Claus for the faculty and held a party at the Chapel Hill Rest Home. A VICA workshop for the chapters in this region was also sponsored by the group.

Originality Kindled to Produce Art Works

Bottle of wine, fruit of the vine, when ya gonna let me get sober?

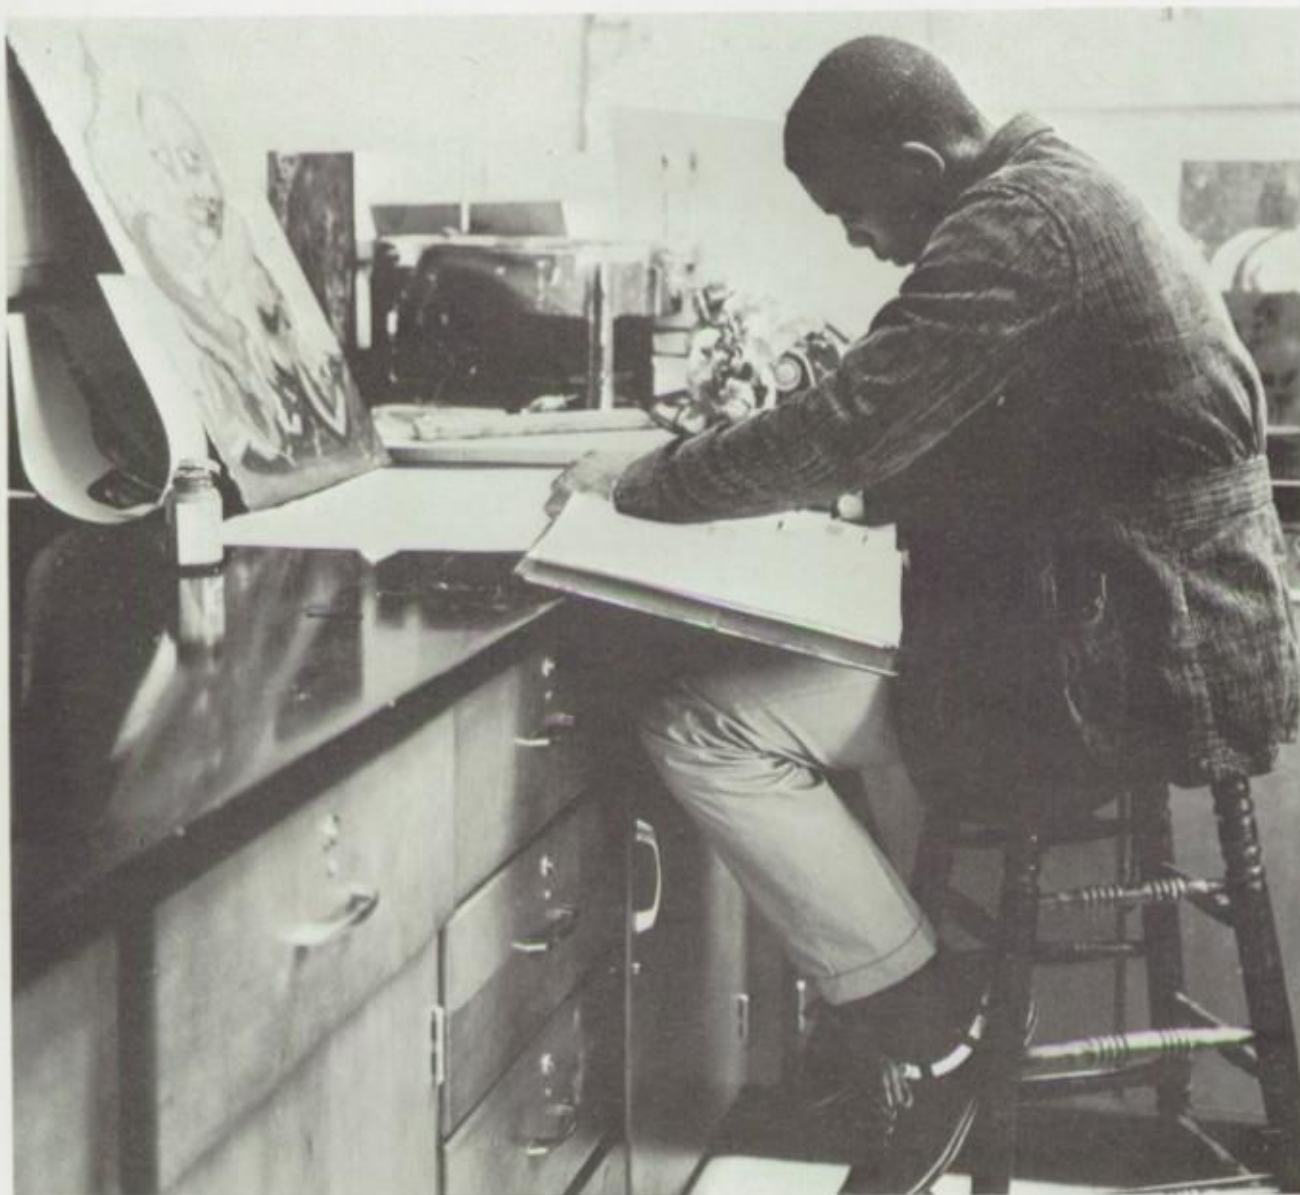

The Art Club is one of the few school organizations which turns originality into profit. Each year the members sell Christmas cards printed from wood-cuts they design themselves.

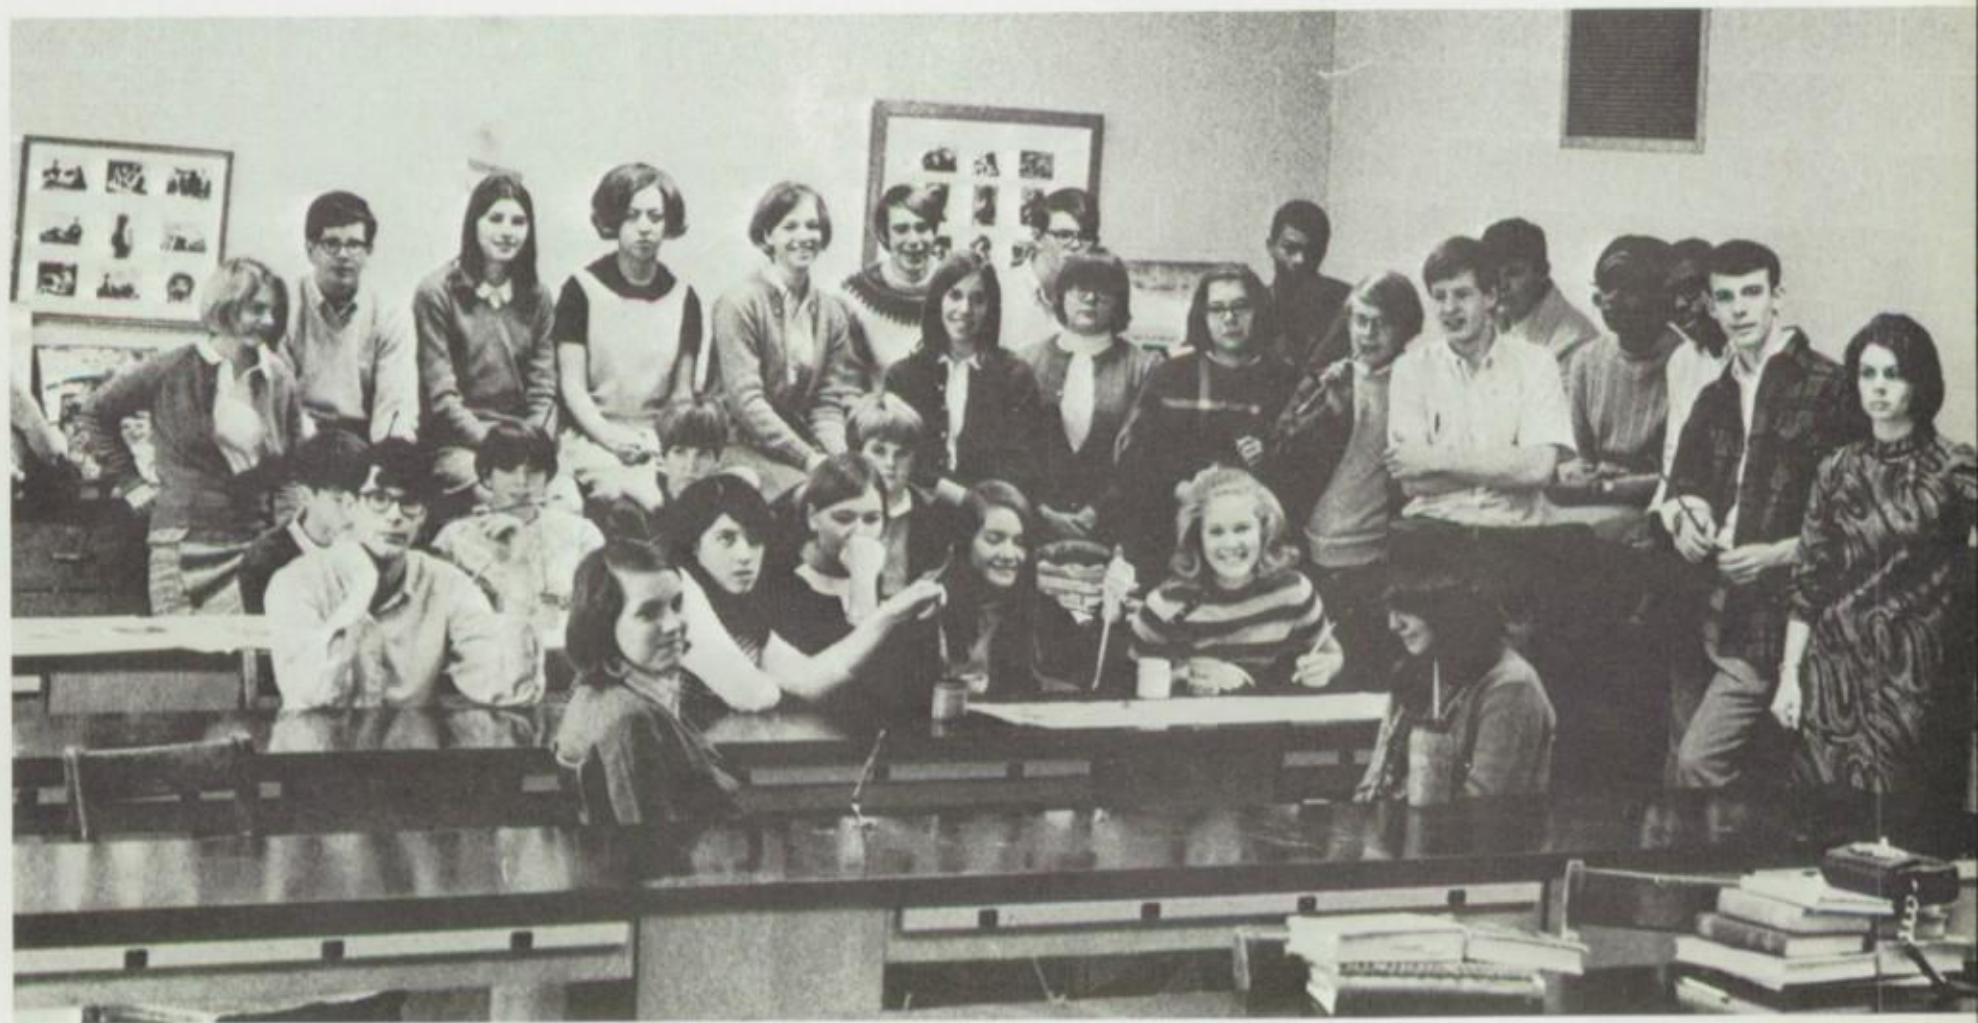

Speakers Mr. Marvin Saltzman, Mrs. Davis, and Lynn Slome have entertained club members on topics of print-making, ceramics and mosaics, and silk-screening. A field trip to the shop of Mrs. Sallie Prang gave club members an inside view of the techniques of ceramics. Students ended the year in sponsoring the annual spring sidewalk art show.

Drudgery is also a part of the artistic game.

Folk Talent Culminates in Comical Assembly

Organized early this year by Mr. Billy Futrell, the Folk Music Club has one of the largest memberships in the school. Each meeting is a "true-blue hootenanny" of club talent expressed through guitars, banjos, autoharps, and voices. The performance of Mr. Futrell's Jug Band and the Eighteen Strings climaxed the mid-year assembly.

Don't think twice, Richard, it's all right.

Dramatists Perfect Skills Through Skits

Bernard Shaw's St. Joan and Dylan Thomas' Under Milkwood provided the Drama Club with ample material for study this year. The members developed skills in acting methods and improvisations (on-the-spot character developments.) Highlighting the year's activities was the spring assembly where Drama-Clubbers presented separate readings and skits.

"You're right—I do have dish-pan hands."

Proco Club Fizzles

Originally the Proconian Club was organized for students who were not on the Proconian staff but who were interested in journalism. The club was to sponsor speakers on different aspects of journalism and learn the basic techniques of newspaper publishing. Lack of interest, however, caused the club to disband in December.

Creative Writing Classes Stuck in Other Mud

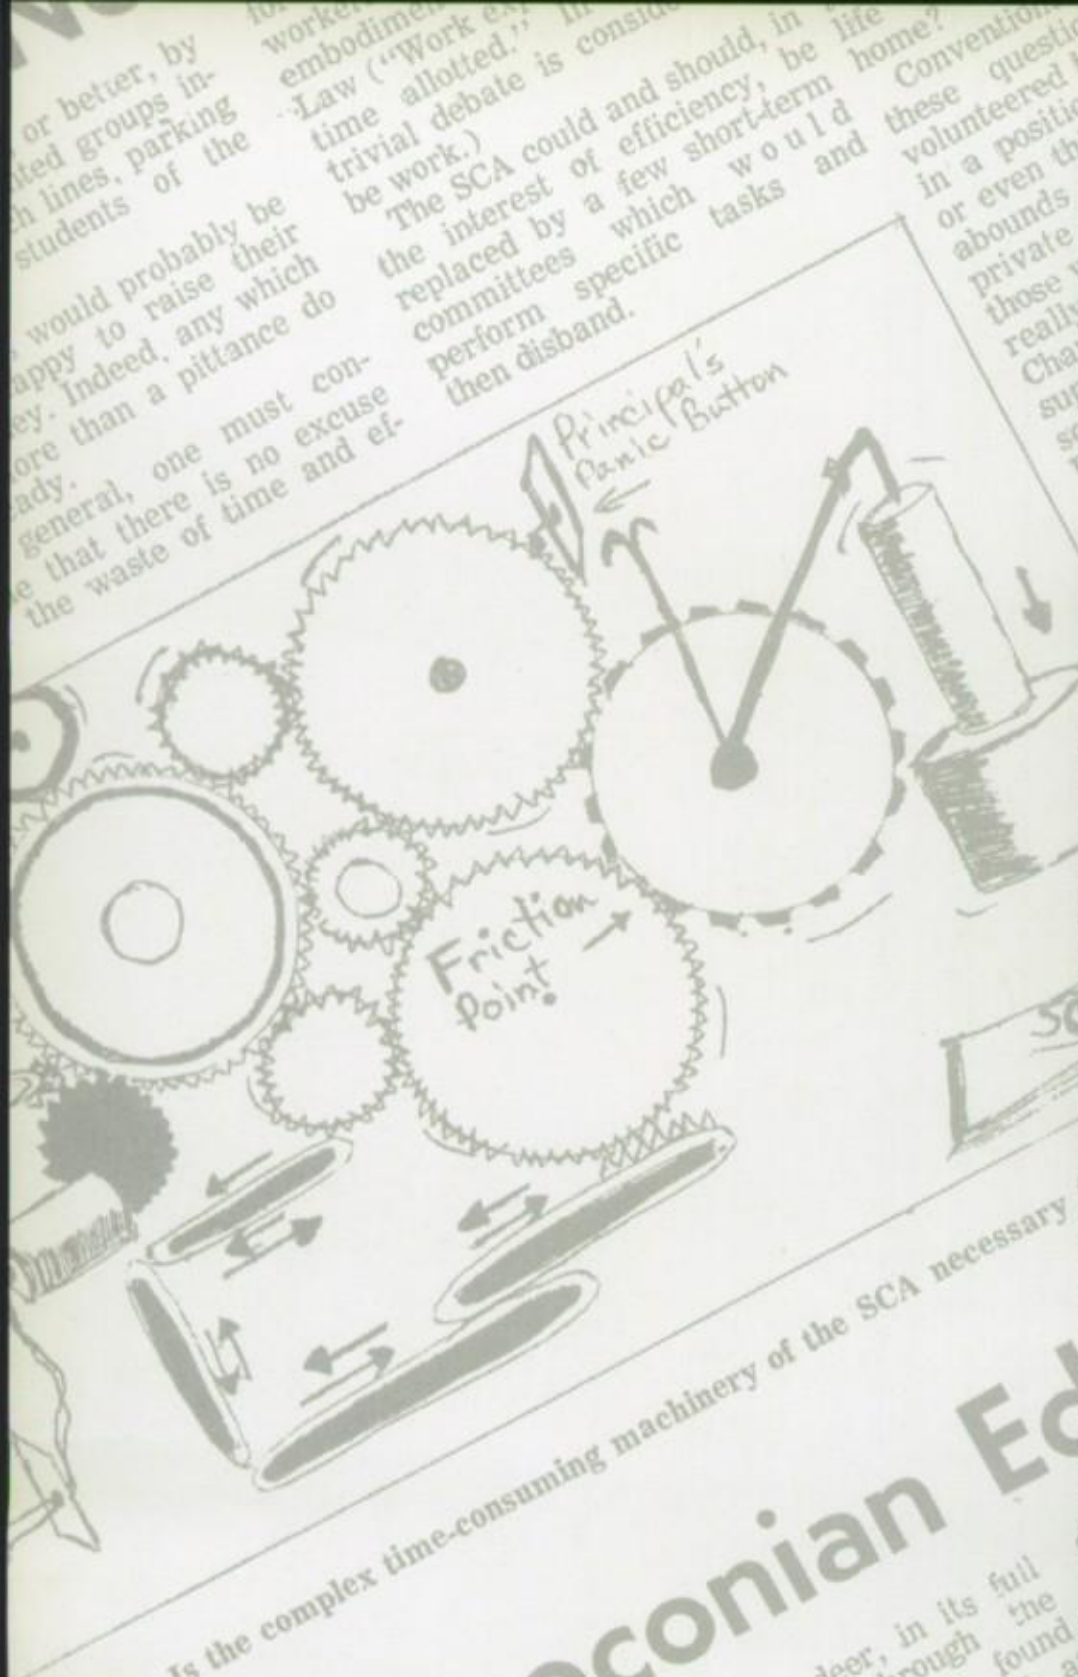

"But in the mud and scum of things
there alway alway something sings."

Emerson

And thus Collage died and The Other Mud was born. Most of the material for CHHS's literary magazine was written by Mrs. Lorie's creative writing classes, but the rest of the student body was invited to contribute both literarily and artistically.

A board of editors, eight creative writers from both classes, screened all contributions before fabricating the magazine. Awakened by a downpour of intellect, students found themselves in an Other Mud.

In our modern educational system, we are supposed to be bringing the students and faculty closer together; (from the CHHS Key: "For all of us there are challenges to which we must rise if we are to be happy and successful. Cooperation, courtesy, understanding, respect for each other, are some of the traits which we must exhibit.")

It is my intention, as well as that of others, to inform the students and faculty that this detention Hall is doing no good and, for the most part, harm to CHHS student-faculty relationship.

It is obvious that we are now under military rule.

Respectfully submitted,

Biology Club Overpopulation

An experiment in overpopulation is being conducted by the Biology Club, under the direction of Mrs. Mary Lou Wheeler. It is designed to show the psychological effects of overpopulated living conditions on mice.

The theory of the experiment, as explained by Mrs. Wheeler, is that "When the cage reaches an overpopulated state, one of two things will happen: the mice will stop producing, or the males will kill the young."

On October 17, six males and six females were placed in a wooden cage approximately five feet long and eight inches high. The cage contained 25 compartments, one feeding area and a larger open area with water bottles. The mice enter each of the small circular doors. The cage is wire covered with sawdust and cedar shavings. A wooden tray makes cleaning a problem. The food and sawdust for the experiment were donated by the club by Dr. Dean. The mice were paid for by the club.

Twenty percent of the mice were born in the cage. The mice from the cage were placed in a larger cage with water bottles. The mice

Hilllife '68: An Experiment

HILLLIFE EDITORS: Jamie Burnett, Copy; Lynn Slome, Photography; Jenny Cassel, Lay-out; Dockery Roberts, Class Sections; Brain Mansfield, Business.

This is an explanation:

Hilllife '68 began and ended as an experiment. A Board of Editors replaced the traditional Editor and strived to produce an organized book with an inexperienced staff. Few of us really knew how to begin, so several old traditions were broken; but, nevertheless, we felt The Book needed modernizing and rejuvenating. However, this takes time, and this year's Book can only be a beginning step.

This is the school's Book, but as its creators, we took the liberty to make changes. We realized we would be criticized, but the school is progressing and The Book must follow it.

We hope you love this book. We do.

Rugged Seniors Lead

With a new stadium and a new spirit, the Chapel Hill Wildcats reported in August for three months of toil and sweat. The passage of a local School Bond gave the Cats a beautiful stadium they call their home. New Training equipment, also obtained through the Bond, helped to tone Wildcat muscle into a well co-ordinated unit.

The Wildcats made their strongest showing ever against 4-A power Fayetteville before bowing 13-7. Chapel Hill suffered only two defeats in Conference action, but a tie with Cary left the Cats with third place in the District III-A competition. Against Henderson, the Wildcats came from behind with the poise of champions to take a 20-14 Homecoming Victory.

This year the Wildcat's offensive workhorse Barnes Cotton, center Tom Merritt, and tackle David Taylor were chosen the best players of their respective positions in the entire conference. A rugged interior line manned by such stand outs as Bob Wallace, John Eliadis, and Charles Fox,, tore massive holes in opposing lines as well as producing a stalwart defense against the running game. This interior unit continued to put pressure on the pass-minded quarter-backs throughout the season.

With the additional offensive powers of Junior quarterback Kurt Getsinger, halfbacks Lee Sloan and Gary Council coupled with the outstanding talents of ends Mike Earey and Eddie Womble, the Wildcats were able to average fourteen points a game.

"Yea, verily I say unto thee, when two or three are gathered together, there I am in the midst of you."

CHHS Against Tough Opposition

Chapel Hill linemen open a hole big enough to drive a Barnes Cotton through.

When Cotton hits the ground, its either because he feels sorry for the opposition, or because a touch-down has been scored.

With more power than a locomotive, Cotton and Sloan pave way for a long run by Getsinger.

"Now once again, who carries the ball on the Quarterback Sneak?"

Stress On Team Co-ordination Produces Deadly Fighting Unit

Against ever increasing odds, Super Sloan fights for extra yardage.

Baby Wildcats Promise

Unidentified JV Gridder prepares to dismember unlucky victim.

This year's Junior Varsity squad reacted to their first taste of organized football like seasoned veterans. Under the watchful eye of Coach Gary Keith, the Baby Wildcats soon learned the Chapel Hill offenses and defenses. For the first time in the history of JV football a winning score of 4-2-1 was posted. Lead by quarterback Ken Holland and runner Edric Cotton, the JV's will have their work cut out for them in replacing the holes left by graduating Seniors of the Varsity Team. Irving Boyce is expected to fill one of the vacancies at the Guard position on the Varsity squad. If the team plays with half the desire they showed this year there should be no reason to worry in the future.

If we all push together, maybe we can get it there this time.

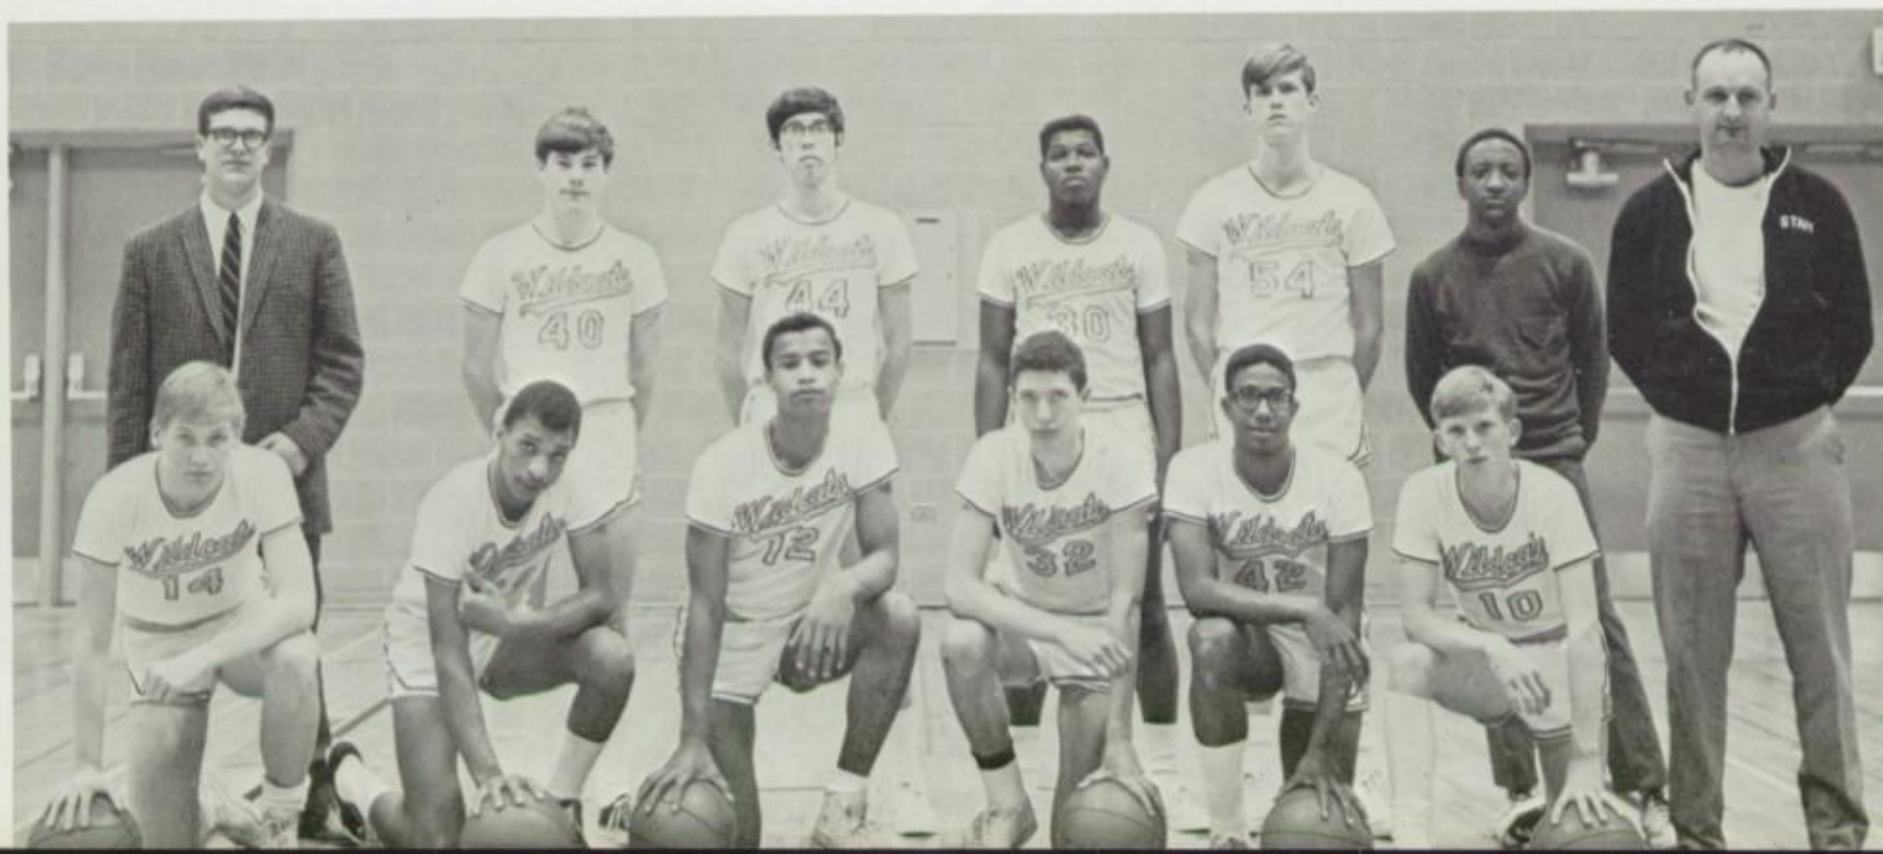

Future Champions

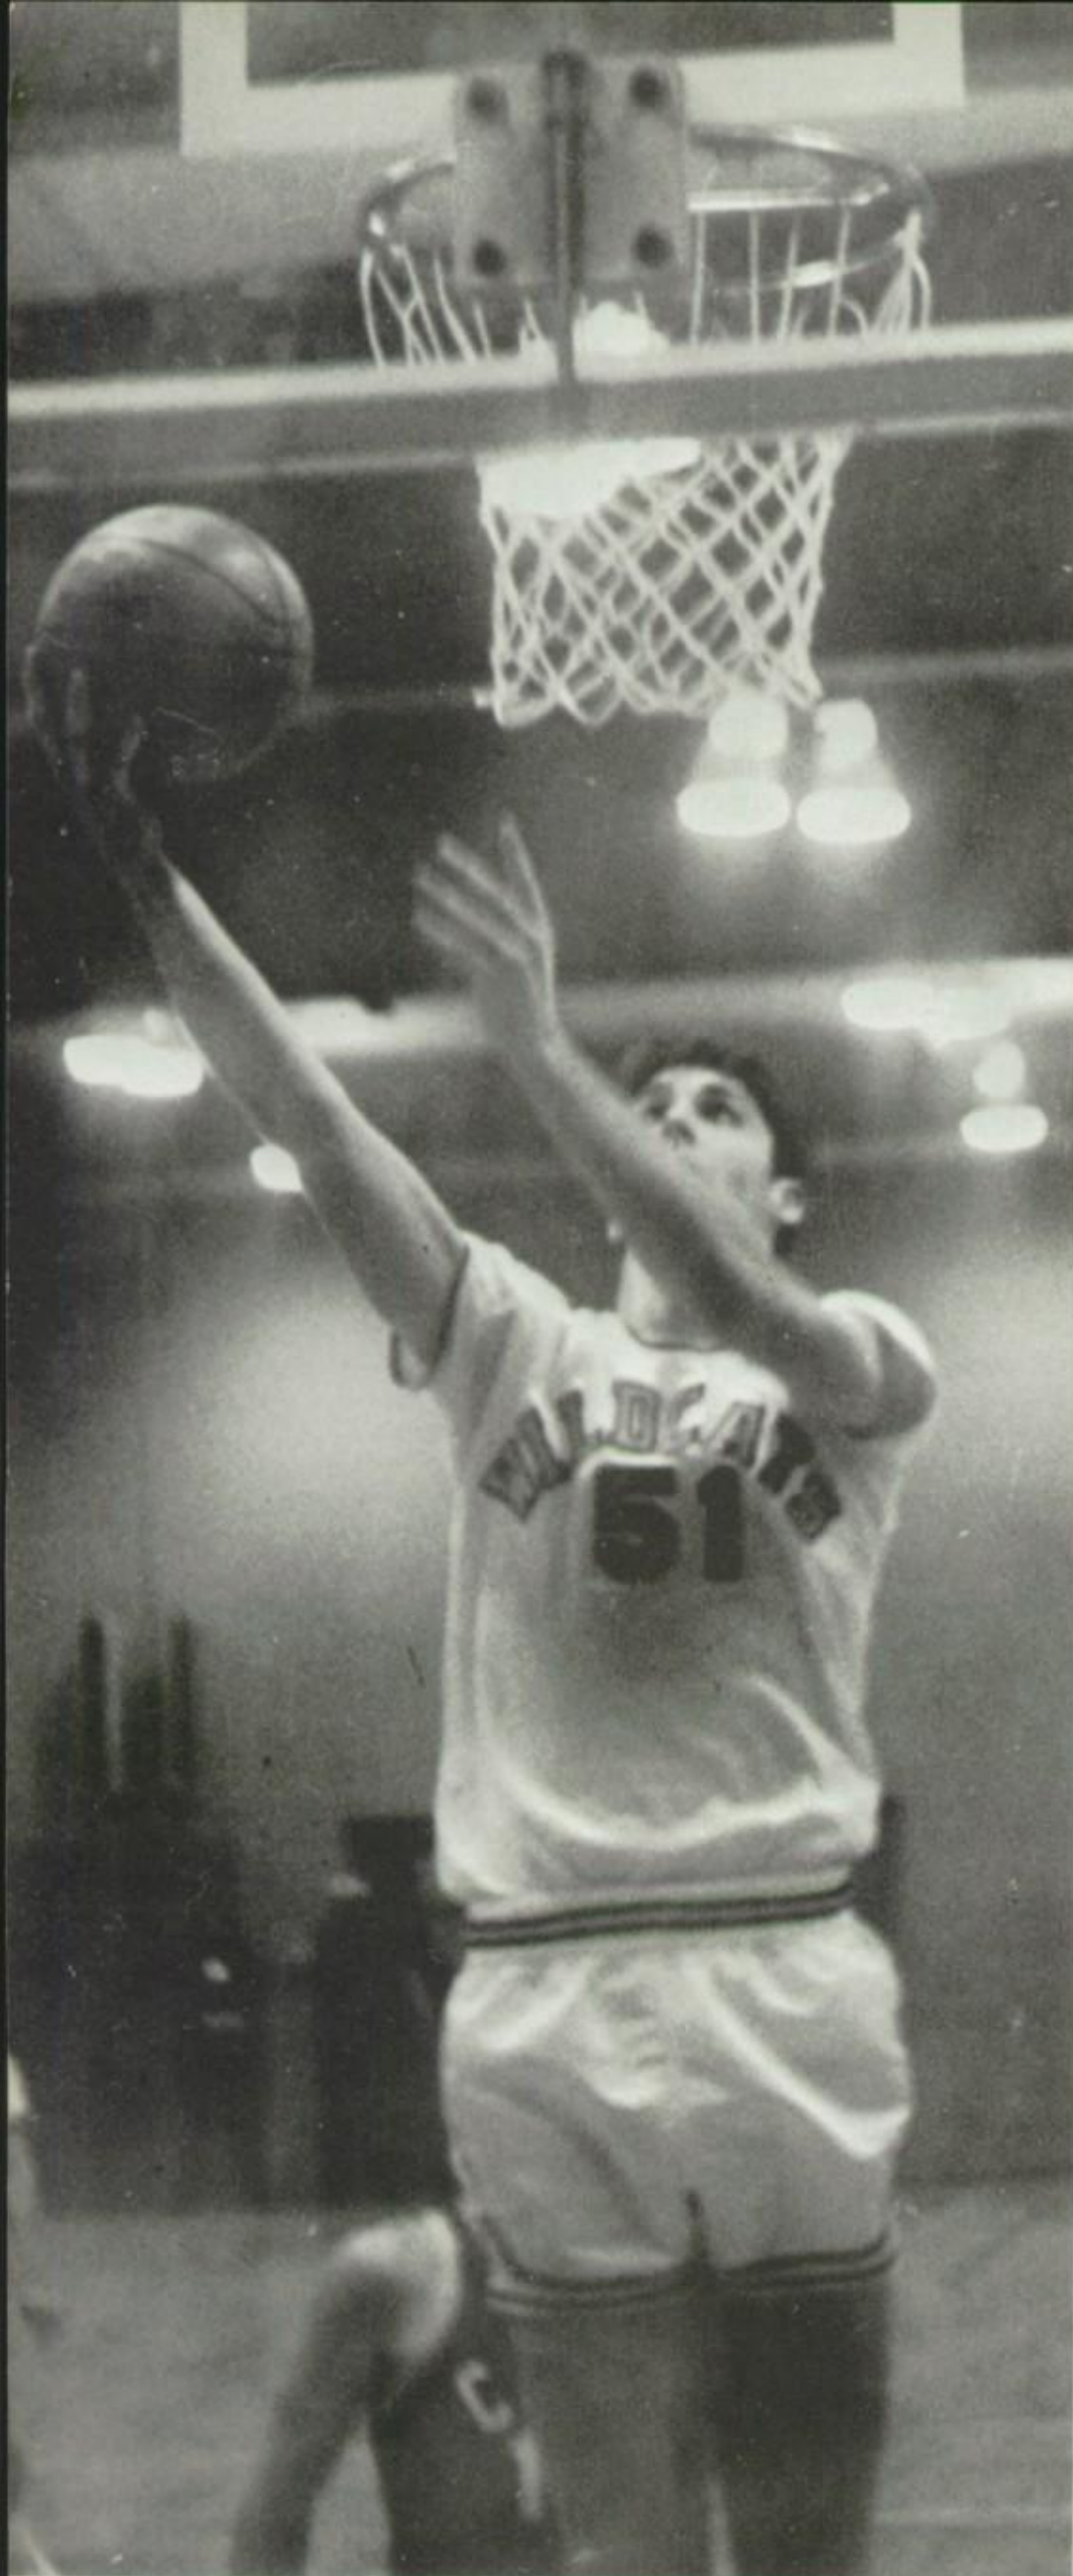

Big Edric Cotton is a hand up on his outsprung opponent.

Junior Varsity Basketball like JV Football tends to be merely a stepping stone to the lime-light of Varsity athletics. This year however, the JV's have found a lime-light of their own. Playing a schedule comparable to that of the Varsity, the Baby Wildcats lost but one bout in the early season and showed no signs of weakening. Lead by standouts Erwin Merritt, Edric Cotton, and Charles Straughn, the JV's employed a fast break that rivals that of the Varsity. Loss of scoring star Jeff Umphlett to the Varsity did not seem to noticeably upset the JV's in the least. With a little more experience under their belts, they should help to strengthen next year's Varsity Team considerably.

JV Basketball Team: Row 1: Pfouts; Merritt; Cotton; Straughn; Jackson; Perry. Row 2: Waddell; Man; Mullen; Scheer; MacMillen; Kolbinsky; Woods; Coach Keith.

This year Coach Culton placed emphasis on speed and agility as opposed to pure height. Many of the teams that opposed the Wildcats have held a distinct size advantage, but the Cats have managed to outshoot, outmanuever, and generally outclass their opposition. During the season Chapel Hill moved away most of the teams in the conference and set themselves for their head to head duels with a highly tooted Jordan team.

The 'fast break' was again a strong point of the Wildcat offensive attack. Strong defense by the Cats forced opponents to take the long shot and make repeated turnovers. These points make the '67-'68 team one of the most exciting in the history of Chapel Hill High.

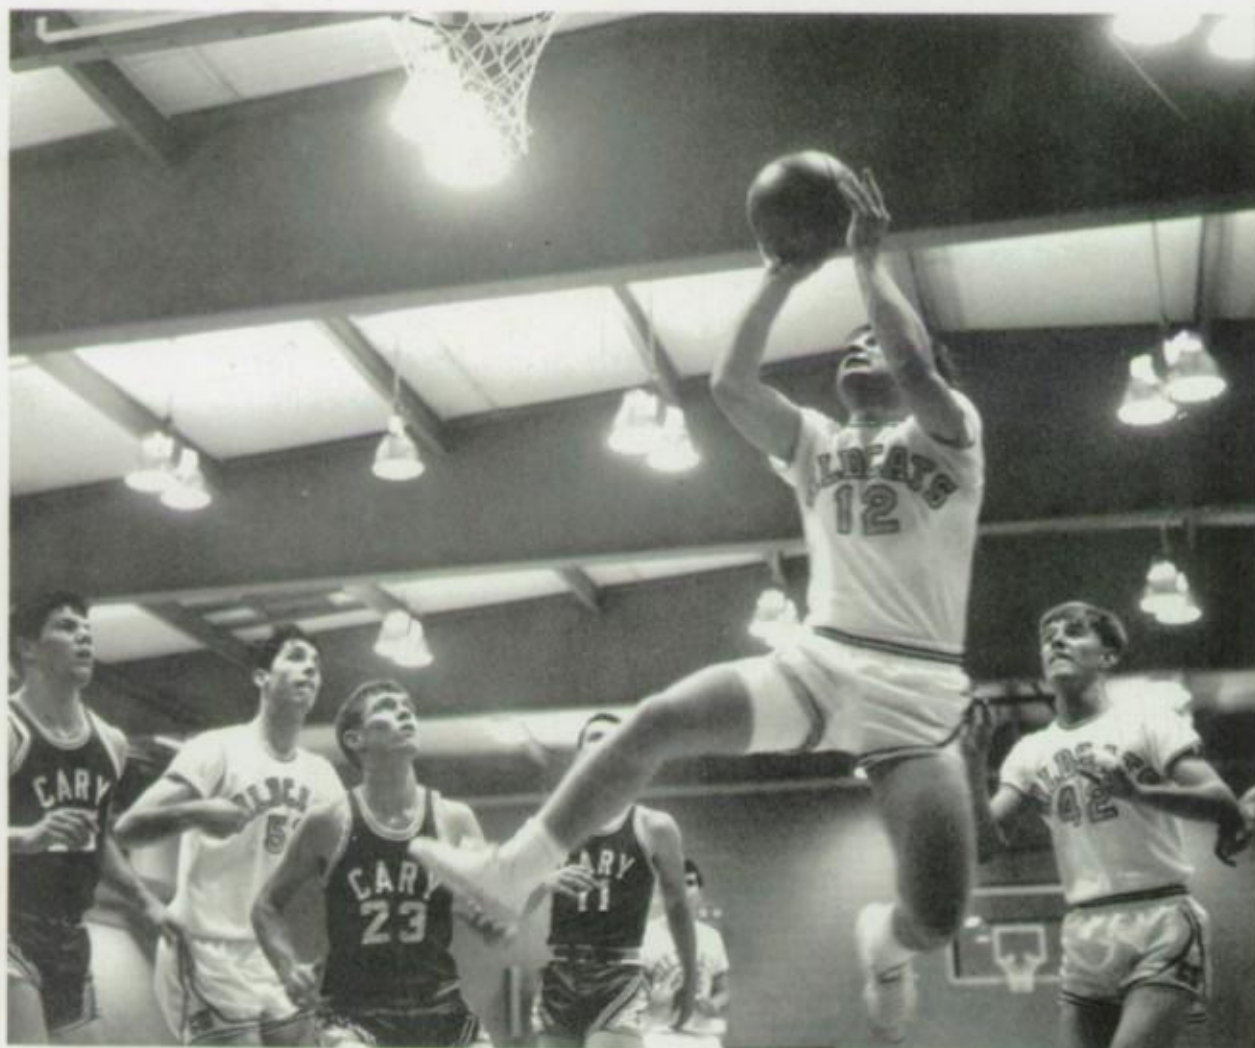

Jeff Umphlett shows perfect form as he pumps for two.

Senior Mike Earey is one of the most outstanding players ever to hit the Chapel Hill hardcourt. At 6'8", Earey has the height and strength to dominate the Wildcat rebounding and the shooting eye to lead the Cats in scoring.

Backcourt honors were shared by Kurt Getsinger and Lee Sloan. Getsinger is probably the best shot the Wildcats have, and took up the slack when Earey was being too heavily guarded. Sloan was the best defensive player on the team and continued to harass the opposition. Pete Sommerfeld added much-needed height to the ballclub and was a great asset on both the offensive and defensive boards. Jeff Umphlett, Billy Hackney, and Barry Merritt gave the Cats tremendous depth. Together, with the rest of the team, these players made up one of the best teams in the state and in Chapel Hill history.

Why are they all swimming? You didn't say "go", did you?

A water version of the famed "Four Horsemen" lead the CHHS Catfish to a respectable record this year against 4-A and college competition. With Richard Abbott, co-captain Johnny Lindall, George Coxhead, and Peter Barnes at the forefront, the squad blanked several opponents from taking an individual swimming first.

Depth was the team's weakness as only a few new scorers arose to fill the gaps left by departing seniors. As a result, the relays were weaker, but with the help of Tom Miller, co-captain Sandy McMahon, diver Tom Cheek and the Four Horsemen, the squad compiled a notable slate.

With only four seniors on this year's squad, Coach Johnny Wyatt's hopes are high for an even better record next year.

Unstable Track Team Struggles to Excel

Hang down your head Tom Hannah.

The Tin Can echoed this year with sounds of the Track Team in practice. Although almost disbanded due to the loss of Coach Hart and many outstanding seniors, the boys buckled down to build up the team from scratch.

Formal winter track and cross country were eliminated, but some runners continued to work out on their own. David Taylor controlled the shot and discus events while Reid Hilton supported the team in hurdles and high jump.

This year was spent rebuilding speed and endurance in hopes for a stronger team next year.

Step - By - Step, Golf and Baseball Teams Work To Strengthen Themselves

The diamond men of the Wildcat Baseball Team tried desperately to redeem themselves this year after last year's losing season. Because the baseball coaches change annually, this year Coach Keith had the honor of reorganizing the team. Co-Captains Mike Preston and Tom Merritt reinforced the team's efforts to match the other teams in the conference.

The Golf Team members jogged around the endless greens and fairways this year practicing their frustrating game of "hit and miss." Coach Johnny Wyatt and Captain Alwin Hogan added their swing to the team.

Tennis Team: Row 1: Langenderfer; Cohen; Hobson, E.; Seigel; Penick, D.; Hobson, H.; Holman; Croft. Row 2: Skakle; Penick, W.; Page; Chaffee; Benson; Brashear; Barber; Sheer.

Courts Finally Materialize To Encourage Netters' Perfection

Birdie, birdie in the sky . . .

"He flies through the air, with the greatest of ease . . ."

This year the CHHS tennis team escaped the freezing morning practices on the UNC tennis courts, and moved to their own newly constructed ones. With the satisfaction or frustration of seeing a little white ball land inside or outside a thin white line, the netters practiced dubiously under the direction of Coach Robert Culton. The team did not fare too well this year, in spite of the great amount of new interest shown in it. The squad was forced to play mainly 4-A and college competition, because CHHS still harbors the only Tennis Team in the conference.

We were Number One, now we'll show you why.

Do You Hear

The mighty Varsity Cheerleaders led the mighty Wildcat fans again this year, begging and praying for game attendance and any hints of spirit. In addition to these usual duties, they sang over the intercom, cooked buffet dinners for the team, made Wildcat banners, and earned money and support for the Boosters' Club. RAH! RAH! RAH!

Precious summer months were spent in tedious practice so that "we shall not be defeated" (ha, ha).

Before us lie the impressions of our world: efforts, defeats, accomplishments and recognition. Forged together they will leave a burning imprint upon the vast ground soon to be behind us.

Our present three years are our only training ground—the steps we take now will echo behind us always.

Assemblies Add Daily

Crowding into the gym, pushing and shoving, the 900-odd members of CHHS (those who could not manage to escape to Marlowe's) settle themselves for the nine hour-long assemblies presented each year.

Dr. Bernard Boyd's stimulating lecture on his archeological dig in Israel held the audience captivated. King for the Day Robert Wallace crowned the cheerleaders' assembly under the title of "Mr. Football". With this smashing success the cheerleaders hope to make pep assemblies a tradition in following years.

In his oration on driving safety Dr. Erle Peacock presented statistics on hazardous driving accidents, showing CHHSers the value of driving skills. Preceding College Night the National Honor Society sponsored an assembly to acquaint students with the standards of various colleges in the area. The CHHS band and chorus demonstrated their abilities in an exuberating Christmas concert.

The grand climax came when the Folk Club offered its controversial talent in the midyear assembly. Cushioned by Mr. Billy Futrell's Jug Band, the Eighteen Strings, Demetrius Williams, Paul Collins and bearded Walter Carter, Richard Abbott injected his debatable performance.

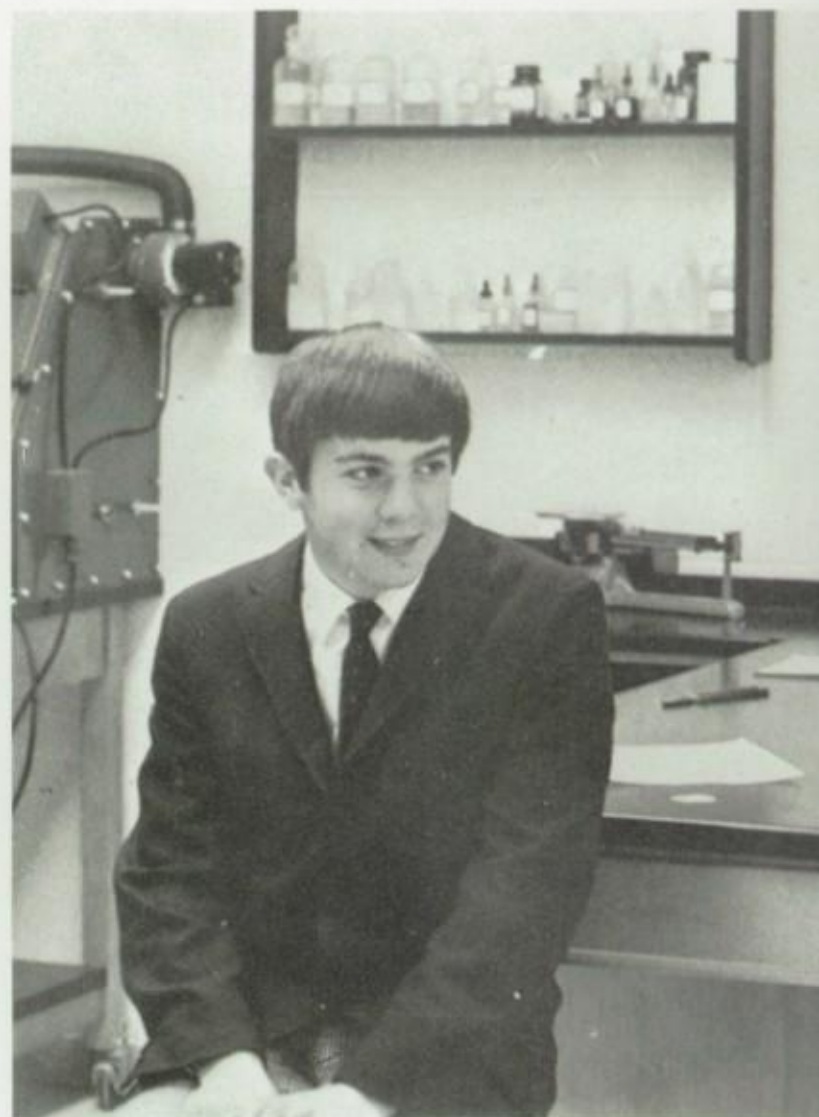

In the spring the Annual National Honor Society tappings cited juniors and seniors for their outstanding scholarship, citizenship, leadership, and character. The awards assembly, recognizing exceptionally talented students, ended the year.

Guests stepped through an aluminum Looking Glass into the crazy forest of the Mad Hatter's Tea Party, ducked into the paper tunnel of the White Rabbit and were suddenly 'midst a splendor created by the ulcers, headaches and ingenuity of the Class of '68.

The Juniors panicked when no ceiling decor could be unearthed, but thanks to Lady Luck, the Army arrived 10,000 strong to erect a billowy sky of nylon parachute. Trouble was, there was no real Alice. It must have been when she was only small. . .

"Noodles, my dear, without butter and without salt."

"What's the matter? Did you get up on the wrong side of the Rhododendrons this morning?" Thus, the Juniors ran rampage through the Carrboro Elementary School Auditorium in their production of "Ring Round the Moon."

The actors slunk behind trellises, trees and bushes spouting forth amorous verses while Don Fuller, playing identical twins, raced back and forth behind the scenes, trying desperately to keep the action synchronized. Jeanne Simmons played opposite one of his roles, while Barbara Tyroler shared his other half. Trust the Juniors to expand the eternal Love Triangle into a Square.

The chaotic rehearsals were overseen by the relentless foreman, Mrs. Dawn Bryan, the play's director. The play was presented on Saturday afternoon and night, February 24, with true Junior class.

Homecoming Celebration

I'll take mine on the rocks, please.

We beat 'em! We've won Homecoming games before, of course, but this one was special: it was the first Homecoming game in our new stadium. Becky Fuller, Homecoming Queen, Beth Perry, Senior Queen, and Dockery Roberts, Football Queen, along with the rest of the CHHS'ers enjoyed watching our Wildcats defeat Henderson in a 20-14 victory. Later, we celebrated to the beat of the Nomads with the dance continuing the Homecoming spirit.

When we started we were just there, in the middle, caught between the future and. . .the future. The Junior-Senior in May. A thousand dollars? Who are they kidding? Panic. Barbecue sales, card parties, the class play, Junior Follies. Plays, follies, fun and games. With college only a year away.

Our attitude? We'll produce the brains. Someone else can do the dirty work. We were leaders, too. The Pro-Con editor, the Homecoming Queen, a hero or two in football, basketball, the swim team. The Juniors were always there.

Sr.'s Years Telescoped

The Class of '68 found itself in the uncomfortable position of straightening it's seams, adjusting its hem-line, and critically reviewing its image: outstanding seniors had to be chosen. The class sorted through itself and pulled out eight individuals, who, together represented parts of the goals the class sought. Those chosen were Dockery Roberts, Lee Sloan, Betsy Kip, Carol Yaggy, Richard Bowerman, Bill Scott, Mike Earey, and Jenny Cassel.

And Magnified

After a summer of the greatest expectations, fears and anticipations of our lives, in September, 1965 the Class of '68 entered meekly into the halls of the now extinct Chapel Hill High School on Franklin Street.

Being the last class to enter that decrepit building presented us with quite a challenge. Since construction had already begun on the million dollar educational plant on Homestead Road, there was little concern for the appearance or efficiency of the old school. However; undaunted, the Class of '68 tackled each crisis with determination and desire.

After struggling through Mrs. Peacock's beloved library course, Biology and the best JV football season in many years, not to mention JV basketball, we began to feel a unity, a oneness, a class spirit. We became further united under the Herculean task of raising money for our Jr-Sr. . . a not too successful cartoon show, annual stationery sale, book and coathanger drives sent us off on the right foot.

September, 1966 brought new challenges to our class. A late start, caused by the incomplete status of our million dollar plant, put pressure on money-raising projects. To combat this shortage, juniors became lumberjacks and filled a huge profit by clearing land for Mr. E. E. Yaggy.

The Junior Class also made a short side trip to Grovers Corners, New Hampshire for a two night stand of "Our Town." "How Sweet It Is" highlighted Junior Follies-1967 (Classic Showmanship reigned as we entertained everyone while listening to the Tar Heels win the Eastern Regionals).

While all this was going on, the studious side of the Junior Class waded through tedious U. S. History assignments, and took Chemistry from Opie Futrell right in stride. College preparations began with a battery of tests with dubious names like NMSQT, PSAT, and SAT.

As the month of April rolled around, panic began to flow into the veins of Juniors: the BIG date, April 28, was only a few weeks away and plans were far behind schedule. A rafterless gym posed another challenge to be met; but, with the assistance of Uncle Sam's glorious Army, the problem was most handily subdued.

After much last-minute painting, stapling, and construction our "wonderland" began to take shape. Then, on the big night, we led the Class of '67 on an enchanting tour through Wonderland, led, of course, by Alice. All our hard work, blood, sweat, and tears culminating in the greatest Jr-Sr ever. We were proud of ourselves, and rightfully so. . .

Before we knew it September, 1967 was upon us, and with it our last year at CHHS. Somehow we could not quite imagine ourselves of the same stature as the members of the Class of '66 whom we had looked up to as sophomores. Class rings were the first physical sign that proved we had actually attained the rank we had worked so long and hard to gain. The formidable task of college application proved to us that we were really there. We had arrived! Now we began to sit back and enjoy all the privileges afforded someone in such a position. However, we could not rest long on our laurels. Lord Jim, Eustacia Vye, and the same tedious history assignments, which now had expanded to world-wide scope, kept the Class of '68 as busy as ever.

It was with great anticipation that we awaited the biggest day of our high school career, which is, ironically, the last: Graduation. Along with all the great anticipation came the happy, yet sometimes hectic, job of ordering invitations, cards, caps and gowns.

But, what has all this accomplished? What was the purpose of three years in Chapel Hill High School? Aside from all the fun and good times our stay at CHHS has prepared us for our future, and helped shape our aims, our ambitions, our goals.

There will be new and different problems for us after we leave "thy halls of pleasant learning." However, no matter what the challenge may be, you can be sure that each member of the Class of 1968 will rise to his own personal cause, as he always has, whatever it may be.

—Pete Sommerfeld

Footsteps . . .

I am forever walking upon these shores,
Betwixt the sand and the foam.
The tide will erase my foot-prints,
And the wind will blow away the foam.
But the sea and the shore will remain forever.

Stay, knowing you
 the part of this year I was in study, was an experience; can-go on being the one soft that want get kicked out of the away.
 Good luck
 to you.
 Always
 Dave

Betsy,
This year
sure has been different but I wouldn't change any of it. It has been nice having you in English and Study Hall. Have fun this summer and will see you next year.
Good Luck!
Lisa Sparrow

Betsy-
We've only had one class together and I couldn't
call that a class
hope to see you
next year
Good Luck
Nance

Betsy.

The girl who sat in front of me in study hall. Good luck, and keep an eye on Ginger for me.

Betsy,
If I weren't for flunked I would for thanks for English. I can understand helping me
decide to make a sale of two cities.
You deserve the whatever you want - and good work in as school. I still want to go - and stay as sweet
I make you up! I want
Nancy Cooper

Betsy,
 Been fun in having you in math, and for a few minutes in Drivers Ed.
 Hope to see you next year
 Rusty

Betsy,
 I've enjoyed knowing you,
 it's been fun having you in Geometry. Good luck have fun this summer.

Carolyn

Betsy,
 To the girl
 Charles likes. Charles may like you but I'll keep tryin' you're a great kid and don't forget Sullivan
 & you'll need it,
 Good luck,
 Ro Mo A o
 Chris
 Copeland

I Love You,

Betsy

Wayne

Dear Betsy,
 It's been fun being
 with you in geometry.
 Hope to have you in some classes next year. Be good this summer and good luck always!

To a Good Friend
 Sweet Love

Dear Betsy that you are a very lovely girl. I think you're a wonderful girl. I hope you have a tremendous summer. Have a great one!
Dube

Dear Betsy
I hope you're having a great summer. Have a great one!
Dube

Well Betsy, long time since I've seen you, except for study hall. No matter how much I've teased you, it's just teasing and I'm just kidding. Have a Great

summer and see lots of Boys [cause that the way to have a great summer!]

Love P.

Betsy, the future
librarian for C.H. Public Library!! Or is it for someone who works there?
P.S. Good luck in your every endeavor!?!?

To the good morning
girl, have a good summer & don't get into any trouble.
Mrs. Triplett

I mean I don't want
the same old thing.

Do you know, without knowing it? I mean
I don't know what you know, but I know that you know what I know. I mean I don't know what you know,
but I know that you know what I know.

I've enjoyed meeting you this year. Maybe we can become better friends in the future. Have fun in high school next year!
Chuck

See you soon.
Have fun, stay sweet.
We had a ball in homeroom.

good ole kizzy!!
Good summer, not only good mornings!!
Have a good time and stay righteous. There are too many of us getting corrupted. See ya in Sept.

Dear Betty,
You are a very good flute player and destined for greatness.
Keep going and you'll be great. Best of luck,
Dite
